Bruce, Campbell asked to resign

Police Chief Arthur Bruce and Detective Lt. Leonard Campbell have been asked by City Manager Jim Huff to submit resignations effective Aug. 1.

The decision to ask for their resignations was reached Monday during a secret session of the City Council.

Bruce is being asked to resign for "the good of the department," Huff said. He added that Campbell is being asked to leave because of his close association with Bruce.

Huff said Bruce's drinking and health problems were major factors in the decision. Bruce has been troubled for sometime with back problems and is currently waiting to undergo an operation in Memphis.

Bruce was contacted today and said he had no comment on the city's request, but that he would have something to say later.

Arthur Bruce

He said he was informed of the decision by a long distance telephone call from Huff while in Memphis. He said he had had no meeting with Huff or the council.

Leonard Campbell

Sgt. Leon Culp has been serving as acting chief during Bruces' absence.

Campbell could not be reached today for comment, but he is reportedly planning to ask for a meeting with the City Council to appeal the decision.

Bruce has been police chief for more than 15 years. In 1971 he was placed on a 90- day probation over alleged police corruption and misconduct. His probation was lifted in 1972 and Raymert Miller, then city manager, gave Bruce his complete support.

Campbell has been a detective since November 1971 when he was promoted from sergeant to lieutenant. The promotion was the result of a probe of the police department which indicated the need for a criminal investigation unit.

Huff said the City Council would have a statement on the resignations at a council meeting Monday morning. Huff assed that the city has not considered who will replace the two men.

Major reforms achieved by Missouri lawmakers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP)— Missouri's 1973 legislative session went out like it came in— with a battle between the legislative and executive branches of government.

The last battle was along political lines; the first wasn't.

But in between, especially in the last week, the 197 Missouri lawmakers achieved major reform in taxation, elections, education and operation of government.

On the closing night, a bill to give 18- year- olds the right to buy and consume liquor was defeated and a bill to reinstate the death penalty died for lack of action.

The Missouri Senate was stalled for about four hours Friday afternoon when the Republicans walked out in support of Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps, who refused to surrender the president's chair to the Senate president pro tem, Sen. William J. Cason, D- Clinton. Phelps was removed by the sergeant-at- arms.

Back in January, when the Senators- 21 Democrats and 13 Republicans- adopted their rules, Cason said he could foresee the day whe he would like to have control of the body to direct the debate.

The rules allowed Cason to assume the chair whenever he wanted. Phelps has maintained the constitution gives him power to preside and vote in cases of ties.

The Supreme Court denied Phelps' last- minute petition, because, the justices said, they need more time to consider the case.

Meanwhile, action on many bills was delayed because the 19 Democrats could not muster the necessary constitutional majority of 18 to pass bills.

Property tax relief for the elderly, called for in a Constitutional amendment, cleared its last Senate hurdle on 19- 0 vote.

Reorganization, also a mandate of the voters, was approved 23- 10 in the Senate after the Republicans came back in the chamber. The House agreed on both and they went to the governor.

The bill to reinstate the death penalty in Missouri under seven categories, talked down at midday as being unconstitutional and referred for a second time to a House- senate conference committee, ran out of time at midnight.

Adjournment was approved just as the sponsor, Sen. Frank Bild, R- St. Louis County, got the floor. He had been ignored in the closing hours as he sought recognition.

3 arrested in Sikeston raid; stolen cars found

The Scott County sheriff's department, city police and the State Highway Patrol have apparently smashed a major stolen car ring in Sikeston as a result of a raid Friday afternoon at Sikeston Auto Salvage, 1615 W. Malone Ave.

Arrested were the salvage firm owner, Dennis Wilson, 26, of 810 Wayne, Larry Wayne Gilbert, 27, of Essex and Gary Dean Irvin, 17, of Morehouse. All three were placed on $10,000 bond. Only Wilson had posted bail by this morning.

Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore said this morning that charges of possession of stolen vehicles will be filed today against all three.

A highway patrol expert on automobile serial numbers was sent to Sikeston from Kirkwood Friday. All of the automobiles were believed stolen in the St. Louis area, then shipped to Sikeston.

The stolen cars were cut apart and sold as parts. When police arrived at the salvage yard they found several cars in various stages of being dismantled.

Irvin allegedly was in the process of cutting a car in half when Trooper Jerry Crisman walked up and told him his work day was over.

Irvin reportedly stopped working and asked if it was all right if he went to the office for a soft drink. Crisman told him to go ahead.

After reading Irvin his rights, Crismon asked him if he didn't think there was something unusual about cutting up so many cars. Irvin reportedly replied, "When you work for a man, you don't ask questions."

Four motors found in the main building were quickly identified as being stolen, according to officers. More than 30 others in an adjacent shed were being checked today.

No value has yet been placed on the stolen vehicles, most of which were late model cars.

13 hurt in 6 accidents

Thirteen persons were injured Friday in six area traffic accidents, the highway patrol announced today.

Bruce Wayne Penrod, 19, of Jackson received facial cuts and a possible shoulder injury at 7:30 a.m. when he passed another vehicle, lost control, struck a drain culvert and overturned on Highway 61 five miles north of Jackson.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Charles Winston Lemmons, 49, of Houston was injured at 11 a.m. 10 miles northwest of Poplar Bluff when he fell asleep at the wheel, ran off the road and struck an embankment on Highway 60. The patrol said Lemmons had just been released from Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff and apparently had fallen asleep from medication.

He was taken to Veterans Hospital with minor injuries.

Two persons were injured at 8:15 a.m. on Highway 61 at Uniontown.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Gladys Irene Hopfer, 58, of Uniontown made a left turn into the path of a southbound car driven by Jimmy Dale Mitchell, 27, of Sedalia. The right side of the Mitchell auto struck the right side of the Hopfer car.

Mitchell received head cuts and his wife, Linda Sue Mitchell, 25, suffered bruises and scratches. They were treated and released at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Albert Harrell, 70, of House Springs received cuts and a possible neck and back injury at 10:50 p.m. one-half mile north of Perryville on Highway 61 when he made a left turn into the path of a car driven by Frank Bahr, 73, of Ste. Genevieve.

Bahr suffered a possible neck injury, and both were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

Two cars collided at 2:30 p.m. on Highway 61 at the north edge of the Perryville city limits, injuring two persons.

The accident occurred when a car driven north by James Osborn, 68, of Freeburg, Ill., failed to yield the right of way and made a left turn into the path of a southbound car driven by Mark Hobis, 18, of Perryville.

Injured were Ida Osborn, 61, of Freeburg, arm and shoulder injury, and Mabel Tucker, 65, of Perryville, minor injuries. Both were passengers in the Osborn car and were taken to the Perry County hospital.

Five persons were injured in a one- car accident at 4:30 p.m. on Interstate 55 two miles south of Perryville.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Walter Schaeffer, 48, of Belleville, Ill., had a blowout, ran off the right side of the road, overturned and rolled down an embankment.

Injured were Schaeffer, possible shoulder injury, and Angeline Schaeffer, 49, Elizabeth Schaeffer, 14, Mark Schaeffer, 12, and Angela Schaeffer, 7, bruises and scratches. All were taken to the Perry County hospital.

Tinnin defends vote

JEFFERSON CITY — State Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, Hornersville Democrat, has denied playing any role in deciding against capital improvement funds for a proposed school for the retarded in the Sikeston - Charleston area.

Tinnin was accused last week of blocking funds for the proposed new Sikeston - Charleston school building by Reps. C. F. Cline of Sikeston, Fred DeField of Charleston and Fred (Gene) Copeland of New Madrid.

Sen. Tinnin said the director of the Missouri Division of Design and Planning had attended an appropriations conference committee meeting and had recommended that four per cent of the proposed cost be allocated for planning in the current session, with the balance to be appropriated in 1974.

"There are two other schools, one at Union and one at Hannibal that were asking for state schools for retarded as grants from the state," Tinnin said in a letter to The Daily Standard.

"We did not have the money for all three this year. It takes about a year to get all plans ready. We granted the planning money to all three with the expectation of appropriating the rest of the money next year."

"The state has made planning money available for various buildings and then the following year appropriated the funds to complete the building. So the Sikeston - Charleston school was not voted against by me. The decision was made by the entire conference committee."

"It is rather difficult for one person to defend himself when three representatives team up against him in order to mislead the public about what they wish they could have done," Tinnin said.

"I deny that I held the deciding vote as was stated in the paper, and the representative who reported that, who served on the conference committee, knows better. The other two know nothing about what happened because they are not members of the conference committee."

Rep. Copeland, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, served on the conference committee with Sen. Tinnin.

A DAY FOR DAD

Father's Day, which comes this year on Sunday, June 17, has fallen victim to the same over-commercialization that plagues Christmas. Last year, America's 65 million fathers each received, on the average, two gifts costing $9 apiece. Total Father's Day sales, which increase by about 10 per cent annually, probably will top $1.5 billion in 1973. Men's sportswear sales jump 100 per cent every June, men's furnishings sales go up 55 per cent, cameras 42 per cent, sporting goods 41 per cent, luggage 40 per cent and reclining chairs 20 per cent. These figures came from the Father's Day Council, Ind., a retail trade boosters' group. "The emotion of Father's Day has overpowering impact for about two weeks every June," says Sig Schlesinger, the council's executive director.

All this is a far cry from the day in 1910 in Spokane, Wash., when Father's Day first was celebrated. Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, who originated the idea, wanted to call attention to a father's place in the home and to such patriarchial functions as discliplining the children, safeguarding the marriage bond, and protecting womanhood and childhood. The Spokane Ministers Alliance and the local Young Men's Christian Association sponsored the first official Father's Day. In 1924 President Coolidge recommended national observance and in 1972 President Nixon signed into a law a bill making the third Sunday in June a national holiday.

But despite the extravagant commercialization, Father's Day has come a full circle in one important sense. William Smart, Mrs. Dodd's honored father, was a widower who raised six motherless children by himself on an eastern Washington farm. In recent years this form of bachelor fatherhood has become more widely practiced and accepted. "Women are no more adept at being mothers than men are at being fathers," says the male president of a California chapter of Parents Without Partners. Growing numbers of divorced fathers are gaining custody of their children in cases of abandonment, abuse or adultery by the mother. These men have to contend with traditional stereotypes and outsiders' questions as well as the shopping, cooking, cleaning and bread-winning. But for many the biggest problem is displaying their affection. The english language has no words such as "maternal instinct" or "motherly love" to describe a father's love. "Nonsexual affection on the part of the man is highly questioned in this society," says Dr. Bernard Steinzor, author of When Parents Divorce (1970). "One has to fight American male standards to be a loving father."

ARMY OPEN TO MS.-PECKING?

This is now the Army, Ms. Jones:

For the first time, a new Army command policy allows members of the Women's Army Corps to exercise disciplinary authority over men.

The actual change in Army Regulations enables Wacs to be assigned to any command position, except those associated with combat or tactical combat support.

Up until now, women have been permitted to command women and to supervise both men and women, but were not permitted to exercise the disciplinary authority of a commander over men (contrary to what is frequently the case in civilian — er, that is, married — life).

MAGS THRIVE,
TAKE-OFFS BOOM

"Life" may be gone but life goes on in the magazine publishing field.

In this era of women's liberation, it is interesting to note that one of the boomingest areas in the business is men's magazines, chauvinist pig division.

Consider that a new one called "Gallery," a take-off on "Playboy" (some say a carbon copy), sold a million copies of its March issue. The latter, however, is still going well, along with "Oui" and its arch-rival, "Penthouse."

Soon to enter the competition will be "Voir," which is French for "see," as in "peek."

But magazine publishing isn't going entirely to the fleshpots. Scheduled to debut in June is "Single," which its promotors say will focus on the "intellectual, emotional and practical" concerns of the 43 million single, widowed and divorced men and women in the United States as an answer to the sex- oriented mags.

Whatever happened to "The Worm- Runner's Digest"?

The human body is thrown out of balance by worry and fear, and the teeth decay because of the consequent upsetting of the thyroid gland, which furnishes needed calcium to fight bacteria, according to Dr. William McGonigle. "You really can think yourself into stomach ulcers," stated the scientist, "for constant thought on the subject restricts the natural processes."

The chronic worrier tends to induce the very ailments he fears. The problem is how to stop him from worrying. Shouting "Don't worry!" at him will not do the trick. He must help himself by submitting to mental discipline. He may not be able to achieve the detachment of an ancient Greek stoic, or an Oriental mystic, but he can, if he really desires it, acquire something of a philosophic attitude toward life. By deliberately reminding himself that most problems work themselves out in time, and that most anticipated evils do not befall, he can avoid contributing to the breakdown of his physical resistance, and can escape from the vicious circle.

A FORCE
FOR GOOD

The "one and only" Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker has been something extra special in my book for a great many years. I first knew this amazing man many years ago in Detroit, during the days of the old Ford trimotored workhorse planes. I remember one day when I was out at the old Ford field, I saw Eddie come in with a "whoosh" to a perfect three-point landing. A few minutes later old Henry Ford chewed him out about some insignificant thing, winding up with the crack that, "You are just a glorified chauffeur, anyway."

Eddie never batted an eye or raised his voice or showed the slightest sign that he even heard Henry. That is the kind of poise and emotional maturity and stability of character that explains all of the amazing things through which he has lived. If ever there was a great home- grown American hero, Capt. Eddie is certainly that person.

All the astounding chapters in this man's charmed life are directly associated with his absolute and unassailable faith in Almighty God, and his personal dedication to the teachings of that poor Carpenter who, nearly two thousand years ago, gave to this world the one and only answer to human survival in a world of hate and greed and jealousy and fear. Such a personality as Eddie Rickenbacker is a great force for good in any generation.

THAT'S THE WAY
NIXON OPERATES

Investigation of the 1972 election campaign has revealed that Nixon campaigners placed deceptive ads, sent phony telegrams and faked poll results to sway public opinion. So what else is new?

A decade earlier, when Richard Nixon ran for governor of California, his campaign organization was enjoined by a California court for essentially the same tactics.

Created at the time was a "Committee for the Preservation of the Democratic Party in California," which purported to speak for concerned Democrats but which was a creature of the Nixon campaign organization. Literature mailed by the phony committee to hundreds of thousands of California Democrats advanced the same themes Nixon was plugging in the campaign. The literature also solicited funds, claiming the contributions would be used by the Democratic Party.

The California court found, "In truth and in fact, such funds were solicited for the use, benefit and furtherance of the candidacy of Richard Nixon for governor of California." The mailing was in the form of a postcard poll in which the recipient Democrats were asked to respond to certain loaded questions, in addition to sending their money. The California court declared:

"This postcard poll was reviewed, amended and finally approved by Mr. Nixon personally .. Nowhere in letters mailed by defendant committee was it stated that the defendant committee and its mailing were supported and financed by the Nixon for Governor Finance Committee. Mr. Nixon and Mr. Haldeman (H.R., then Nixon's campaign manager) approved the plan and project as described above and agreed that the Nixon campaign committee would finance the project."

The deception produced a rebuke from the court and an order enjoining the Nixon campaign organization from continuing the phone mailings. California Democrats won the ruling after pursuing the issue in the courts at a cost to them of $10,000.

No one went to jail or was fined.

It isn't clear whether the lack of a criminal penalty was because the judge was "soft on crime" or because of a gap in the California law. In any case, California law and order did not accomplish much in this instance. If it had, perhaps the country would have been spared a repetition in 1972.

A WORTHY
PROJECT

Everyone, at one time or another, has driven by the scene of a highway accident. Frequently, the most pitiful and tragic aspect of the accident is the obvious helplessness of bystanders. Critically injured persons, contorted in agony or pinned in wreckage, often in shock, can only stare in blank unawareness at those around them. Confusion mounts as traffic piles up until eventually police and ambulances arrive. If the victims are fortunate, they receive expert care but, too often, delay and mishandling of the injured take a heavy toll.

Each year some 10 million persons are temporarily disabled by civilian injury, 400,000 are permanently disabled and 114,000 die -- half from traffic accidents. Many hospital emergency rooms are short-staffed on weekends, leading to delays and even fatal mistakes. Only 18 of the 50 states regulate ambulance personnel training at all. Last year, 20,000 people survived an accident, but didn't survive the aid of rescuers.

Moves are now under way to improve emergency medical service. One of the most notable is the cooperative undertaking of the American Medical Association and the Jaycees. The Jaycees are working at the community level to upgrade hospital, ambulance and other medical services of an emergency nature. The AMA is furnishing guidance to the Jaycee project. The AMA Commission on Emergency Medical Services has made kits available that outline the main features of steps that every community can take in development of facilities and the training of personnel to upgrade care of the injured.

The tools exist to vastly improve community emergency services. The AMA and the Jaycees are endeavoring to mobilze these tools and, with the help of local communities, bring them to bear on one of the nation's greatest health problems — civilian injury.

WASHINGTON— With absolute disrespect and distaste, it is reported here that Soviet Communist party secretary Leonid Brezhnev rules the only nation in Europe which operates forced- labor concentration camps.

International detente doesn't deprive a newsman of the right and positive duty to report there are thousands of documents to prove that the U.S.S.R. runs its slave- labor camps in Third Reich Nazi tradition. From the most eminent of objective sources there is evidence to prove that the man from Moscow personally has approved the detention of over a million indentured workers in 255 major camps and some 750 other forced- labor installations. Leonid Brezhnev, the metallurgical engineer who made the grade, is much like the "new" Soviet steamer Mikhail Lermontov, sleek on the outside and somewhat shoddy on the inside, according to American maritime labor leaders who visited her last Monday after she docked in New York City.

"When I got to the pier," said National Maritime Union president Shannon Wall, "its shadowy black hull and gleaming superstructure were imposing. East German designers had done well by her. It was difficult to tell the difference at first sight between the Lermontov and the Norwegian craft on the other pier side, the Vista Fjord. But on the Lermontov side the red hammer and sickle seemed deliberately muted against a red background.

"It's the inside which told the truth. Once in the Russian ship, I noted some rust and oil stains, old- type wooden decks along the promenade and boat deck. Some wooden plugs loose. It wasn't our standard. And I remembered sadly our own big 'U,' the S.S. United States, sleek and safe when on the seas, now laid up. And I noted the pictures of Lenin. All propaganda like the crew and mates and masters."

This, in profile, is the Soviet Union. Now, on the outside it's sleek. But inside the nation, even its so- called free workers are under terrific forced pressure to speed and speed production.

The U.S.S.R. claims it has 98 million members in its so-called All Union Central Council of Trade Unions. Why won't the AFL—CIO treat it as a fraternal labor organization?

"We of American labor," said American labor chief George Meany, "have always considered the so- called trade unions in the Communist and all other totalitarian countries as Labor Fronts--- the kind that Dr. Ley and Hitler built. In the U.S.S.R. the head of the Labor Front, designated by the Communist party, is (Alexander) Shelepin, formerly chief of the dreaded Russian Secret Police (KGB). The so-called unions behind the Iron Curtain are only arms and agencies of the Communist dictatorship. They are instruments of the police state--- to police and speed up the workers in the plants."

It is imperative to note that Shelepin now is a political intimate of party secretary Brezhnev in the party's powerful Politburo which rules the Soviet Union.

Therefore, what Shelepin says must be considered the words of Brezhnev.

Recently Shelepin's labor federation scourged Israel. This is in keeping with Shelepin's tradition. It is the secret police which he modernized, which continually arrests dissenters, be they of Jewish or other faiths. The All Union Central Council of Trade Unions officially denounced the Israelis for their commando raid on Beirut. The Israelis were called "gangsters" and "imperialists."

Yet the Central Council did not denounce the Black September killing of American diplomats in Khartoum. The Shelepin labor federation did not denounce the kamikaze killing and wounding of scores of innocent Jewish and Catholic tourists at the Lod airport. The Council did not denounce the slaying of Israeli athletes in Munich.

But of the Jewish commando raid, Shelepin, now almost as powerful as Brezhnev, said, "The Soviet trade unions were outraged to hear about the treacherous attack of the Israeli brass on Beirut, Sayda and the Palestinian refugee camp."

Also, the Shelepin labor front said the "trade unions of the U.S.S.R. continue to express solidarity with the struggle of the Arab peoples against" the Israelis.

And it was this labor front which provided most of the noise and resolutions whooping it up for the Soviet's "Support the Arab People Week." It began June 4.

Obviously George Meany and his colleagues are right. The so- called 98 million-member Red labor "movement" is a police-prodded official front. Once it had strong influence in sections of the American labor movement. Now it is influential only in some Western waterfront circles.

There is overwhelming documentation for this, and for the charges of vast imprisonment of dissenters in concentration camps, the locations of which are known to the AFL—CIO International Affairs Dept. and the Jewish Labor Committee.

It is, it seems to me, vital to understand that the voice of Brezhnev is the voice of Shelepin and the words of Shelepin are those of the KGB and should be so treated by the American people and our leaders during negotiations with the Soviets. They haven't changed from Stalin's day. The outside gleams. But inside there is moral rot and a good people under chains.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Indiscreet Actions at Bureau of Mines

WASHINGTON— Two top Bureau of Mines officials have accepted free air travel from the coal companies they regulate or from contractors doing business with the government.

Both the director, Dr. Elburt Osborn, and a deputy director, Donald Schlick, appear to have violated a regulation, which expressly forbids employes from accepting gifts and gratuities from companies under their jurisdiction.

Here are the details:

-- On March 19, 1971, Osborn was asked to address a mine safety meeting in Indiana, Pa. When he declined because of poor airline connections, an executive with the Florence Mining Company, James Hurley, offered to charter a plane. Osborn flew the chartered aircraft to the meeting and flew the same company plane back to Washington the next day.

Missed Flight

-- On September 18, 1971, Osborn missed a commercial flight which would have taken him from Charleston, W. Va., to Johnstown, Pa. The president of the giant Consolidation Coal Company, John Corcoran, offered a ride in the firm's plane. Osborn accepted.

-- Three weeks later, on October 7, 1971, Osborn rode in a Pittston Company helicopter from Charleston, W. Va., to Lexington, Ky., where he addressed the Kentucky Coal Association. To the coal operators' surprise, Osborn lambasted them for their high fatality rate.

-- On May 24, 1972, another Pittston helicopter ferried the Bureau of Mines director over Buffalo Creek, W. Va., the area that was devastated three months earlier when a Pittston dam broke and coal waste poured down the valley.

Donald Schlick and three of his aides managed to obtain some hard- to- get tickets to the 1973 superbowl game in Los Angeles. While they were on the West Coast, they rode in a Food Machinery Corporation plane from Los Angeles to a mine site in Wyoming where the three Bureau of Mines officials were headed. FMC corporation happens to hold a multi- million- dollar research contract with the Bureau of Mines. For this indiscretion, Schlick was officially warned that his conduct henceforth must be "beyond reproach."

White House
Favorite

-- Nevertheless, Schlick allegedly has been involved in at least two other conflicts of interest, involving football tickets and corporate plane rides, with organizations doing business with the Bureau of Mines. Neither of these, however, were investigated. The reason, according to insiders, is that Schlick is considered a White House favorite.

Footnote: Director Osborn explained that when he accepted the free plane rides, there was no policy forbidding them. It "never occurred" to him at the time, he told us, that he was doing wrong. "But I wouldn't do it again," he promised. We were unable to reach Schlick for comment.

Who's Lying: Rep. Roger Zion, R- Ind., is sputtering over our report that he pressured Washington lobbyists into donating prizes for the annual Congressional Golf Tournament. A "perverted exaggeration of the truth," he called our story.

Unfortunately for the former Boy Scout leader, we have seen his personal memos on the golf gala. We will quote a few typical highlights so his constituents can judge who is indulging in "perverted exaggeration."

Zion's first call for boodle, his files show, was a memo to lobbyists asking: "Would you please find some suitable prize (or prizes) that you would like to contribute and send same to me..."

No lobbyist, who ever expected to get a legislative favor out of Congress, could ignore such a blatant appeal. Back came the prizes by the carload. One staff member described the scene for us in a written statement.

"Zion had more booty in his office that King Farouk in his salad days," reported the witness. "There was stuff in closets, stashed under desks and in the congressman's own office. He had stacks of expensive golf balls, an outdoor grill, golf bags... as well as two television sets."

Other lobbyists sent gift certificates. Typical was the tire lobby, which notified Zion: "The Rubber Manufacturers Association on behalf of the five tire manufacturers listed below is happy to make available a $60 gift certificate..."

Zion's colleagues became embarrassed over the gush of gifts. Tourney chairman Rep. Burt Talcott, R- Calif., who put Zion in charge of collecting prizes, quietly notified other members of the prize committee, according to his files, "not to solicit any more gifts or prizes."

Rep. Harold Collier, R- Ill., who had arranged for the congressional whiffers to use his country club, withdrew the offer "because of the manner in which the prize solicitation was conducted" by Zion.

As Talcott commented: "This guy (Zion) got overeager. None of us approved it."

Discuss community center

The former Bank of Scott County building in Morley, not used as a bank since the depression years, is now undergoing a complete renovation so that it can be used as a community center for the citizens of Morley. Principals in the work being done on the building are from left: Ernest E. McCallum of St. Louis, rehabilitation advisor with the Department of Housing and Urban Development; J. R. Lee Jr., councilman; Jess Chapman, city clerk; Vester Phillips, Versatile Home Builders, Inc. general contractor; and Carol Mathews, councilman. Construction on the building, which has been a grocery and drug store at various times since the 1930s, is being done by Causey Construction Co. of Sikeston. Demolition work began on the inside of the structure in December, with completion estimated in about 60 days. When the work is completed, the building will house a kitchen, regional library facility and meeting area. The HUD grant for renovation of the old bank building totals $25,345. Kitchen facilities in the building will be used for the "One Hot Meal a Day" program for elderly citizens. Grounds of the bank will be developed into an outdoor recreation area.

6 teachers resign R-1 Board hires 15

CHARLESTON — Resignations of six teachers were accepted and 15 new teachers were hired by the Charleston R-1 Board of Education Thursday night.

Resignations were accepted for the following school personnel: Mrs. Lynn Place, Richard Place, Everett House, Miss Karen Wildeman, Mrs. Alberta Long and Mrs. Kathy Mazuranic. Mrs. Carolyn Howard was granted a maternity leave of absence for the 1973-74 school year.

Teachers hired for Charleston High School and their positions are William J. Ponder, biology and chemistry, and Robert F. White Jr., industrial arts.

New teachers at Hearnes Elementary School will be Mrs. Linda Mannweiler, Mrs. Charlett True, Miss Connie Goodrich, Mrs. Ruth E. McAllister, Mrs. Sharon Poston, Mrs. Linda H. Oliver, Mrs. Helen Ponder, Mrs. Vicki D. Emmendorfer, Miss Sandra Schwab and Miss Susan Shelby.

Miss Joyce Marie Boyle was hired to work with the elementary Title I program, and Mrs. JoAnn Hearnes was hired to teach at the Bertrand Elementary School. A D. Simpson School here also got a new teacher, Mrs. Betty A. Newman.

Still being sought by the school district are two social studies teachers, two mathematics teachers, a speech, English and drama teacher and a foreign language teacher. These positions will be at Charleston High School, where there are also openings for two football coaches and a basketball coach.

In other business, the board accepted a gas bid of 25 cents per gallon from the McKinney Oil Co. here, a Mobile distributor. It was also reported that the national oil company said the school will receive 92 per cent of the gasoline they received over the same period last year. This ruling was made in conjunction with the current gasoline shortage. However, McKinney guaranteed the board enough gasoline for the entire year.

The board has renewed a lease on a tractor from the Ford Tractor Co. at Sikeston. Leasing rates have risen from 10 per cent of the list price to 15 per cent of the list price, but the board opted to lease rather than buy because of costly maintenance.

Approval was also given renewing $400 in annual dues to the Missouri School Board Association.

Southeast Missouri has tourist appeal

Three generations ago, canoes were floating down the Jack's Fork, Eleven Point, St. Francois, Current and other southeast Missouri rivers. To these several manmade lakes have been added including Clearwater, Wappapello and Killarney.

But water is only one attraction for the tourist reminds the Missouri Tourism Commission, southeast Missouri has history with a capital H. Thousands of youngsters and their parents each year visit such historic sites as Fort Davidson, nestled in the Arcadia Valley. Here in this peaceful valley was fought the bloodiest battle of the Civil War in Missouri.

That happened only yesterday when compared to another tourist attraction a few miles from the Fort: Elephant Rock State Park was formed 1,250 million years ago by the erosion of the Pre- Cambrian Sea. Tourists seeking yesterday can also relive the past attractions like St. Francois Village, Bonne Terre Mines, Millstream Gardens, Johnson Shut- Ins and the many springs in the area including the largest in the U.S. Big Springs.

Southeast Missouri in the fall is unrivalled anywhere as whole mountains change color and the trees don their autumnal glory. And there's one spectacle the year around -- a lake literally setting atop a concrete walled mountain. The world- renowned Taum Sauk project of the Union Electric Company is one of southeast Missouri's top tourist attractions. Visitors from all over the world come to see and marvel at this unique method of generating electric power by pouring a river of water through a tunnel bored through a mountain.

State parks abound in this section of the state and there are scores of privately operated fully- equipped camping parks throughout the southeast.

Yes, there's lots to see and do in the southeast Ozarks but most important of all -- these are friendly people whose greeting to today's tourist is the same as it was to the generations of long ago.

Ann Landers

Well-mannered persons always say thank you

Dear Ann Landers: I've read your column faithfully for years, and now I guess it's my turn to ask for advice. Sooner or later everybody runs into a problem they can't handle.

I am 17 years old and have been going steady for two years. Several months ago my boy friend told me he had VD and begged me to get tested right away. Well, I did, and sure enough I had it, too. Both of us were treated free by the City Health Department doctor and he didn't tell our parents. (Thank God THAT law was changed last year in our state.)

We are completely cured, although we have to go back every six months for two years to make sure the cure is permanent. The question I need an answer to is this: I babysit with an adorable little boy. I live in fear that I might have given him the infection. I would never be able to live with myself if anything happened to that child and it was my fault.

Should I suggest to his parents that they have the boy tested and trust them not to tell my folks?--- G.C.N.Y.

Dear G.C.: Yes. The chances are very slim that the child contracted the disease, but it's a chance you should NOT take.

Dear Ann Landers: You called yourself a "moth- eaten square" when you responded to "Snubbed in California." Well, if you're one, then so am I. I'll refresh your memory. The woman who wrote was hurt because she and her husband had not been invited to a big party given by her next- door neighbors. She said she nearly cried when she saw cars lined up for a block. When she asked her neighbor why she and her husband had been left out, she was told, "We weren't sure you enjoyed the previous two parties because we never heard from you." The left- out lady thought you were crazy when you suggested that she should have written a thank- you note or at least telephoned the next day.

My husband is a salesman for a packaged- food product. From time to time he has to pick up damaged cartons which we share with our neighbors and friends. (Our son is their free "delivery boy.") Most people never even say "thank you."

My husband says, "Forget it. Some folks aren't articulate."

I say it's bad manners. We'd both like to know, how important is a "thank you?"---Old School

Dear O.S.: A "thank you" is more important to the one who SAYS it than the one to whom it is said. It distinguishes him from the graceless clod who doesn't think amenities are worth the trouble. One needn't be "articulate" to express appreciation. Just well-mannered.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is from Caracas, Venezuela, where your column appears in the Caracas Daily Journal. Since you are syndicated in many foreign countries and read so widely, will you please let your readers know that Alcoholics Anonymous and Al- Anon are available in 80 countries outside of the United States.

Anyone who wants to know how and where to get help with a drinking problem should write to A.A. Services Incorporated, Box 459, Grand Central Station, New YorkNew York 10017. Thank you, Ann. We appreciate your support---Anonymous In Caracas

Dear Anon in C.: Here's your letter and my best wishes to all who work with A.A. They perform a life- saving service for countless people who have tried everything else and failed. Carry on!

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting--- What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yields will depend upon practices

By THOMAS A. BROWN JR
Area Agronomy Specialist

Much of the land to be planted to soybeans in this area this year will be planted late- the equivalent of normal "wheatfield" beans or later. Bean yields produced will depend to a great extent upon practices used about planting time.

On the other hand, time for planting the group is getting short,, and some shortcuts could be used to facilitate getting the crop planted with very little if any yield loss involved.

A very important consideration along this line is soil fertility. Soybeans have a high requirement for lime, and the application of lime will pay good dividends even this year if the soil needs lime and time will permit its application. Adequate phosphate and potash are also essential to the profitable production of soybeans.

Research has shown that a good response can be expected from the direct application of phosphate and potash especially on fields on which a soil test shows a phosphate level of 100 pounds or less and a potash level of 150 pounds or less per acre.

Demonstration plots conducted in Stoddard County have shown that a good response can be expected from the application of these elements as a sidedressing treatment after the beans come up on a low fertility level such as this.

Consequently, it is better to go ahead and plant the beans and apply the fertilizer later as a sidedressing treatment than to fail to get it applied in such cases. If beans follow a well-fertilized crop, no fertilizer should be needed.

We have been asked several questions recently concerning soybeans varieties for late planting. As a general rule mid-season and late- season varieties perform better when beans are planted late. Mid-season varieties adapted to our area include Hill, Dare, Dyer, York, Mark and Forrest. Adapted late- season varieties include Hood Pickett, Pickett 71 and Lee 68.

Soybean cyst nematode resistant varieties including Dyer, Mack, Forrest, Pickett, or Pickett 71 should be planted where Race 3 cyst nematode is suspected or known to be a problem.

Weed control is always an important consideration, and the persistant rainfall that has continued up until the present time means that weed problems in late beans will probably be worse than normal this year.

Some farmers have changed from preplant incorporated herbicide treatment to pre-emergence treatments that can be applied in the planting operation to facilitate getting beans planted as early as possible.

In some cases, beans are being planted without the application of herbicides. In such cases, farmers may want to consider the application of Dinoseb (Dinitro) as a "cracking stage" treatment.

This treatment can be made from the time the beans crack the ground in the process of coming up until the appearance of the first true leaves. This is the first pair of leaves that appears on the soybean plant after the cotyledons or "seed leaves".

This treatment should be used only when a flush of weeds come up shortly after planting. The recommended application rate is too low for dependable control of weeds not yet emerged.

If a preplant incorporated treatment of Trifluralin (Treflan) or Nitralin (Planavin) is to be used where beans are to follow wheat, the crop's residue, including the ashes in cases where wheat stubble is burned, should be worked into the soil well before the herbicide is applied. If the herbicide is applied in direct contact with the crop residue, the effectiveness of the herbicide will be limited significantly.

Additional information pertaining to making late plantings of beans may be obtained upon request at a county extension center.

Former certification under way for farm programs

NEW MADRID — With a final certification date of July 2 for the 1973 feed grain, wheat and cotton programs in New Madrid County, approximately 10 per cent of program participants have certified program compliance, reports Bernard Recker, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) county committee chairman.

Pointing out that the final certification date is only two weeks away, he said that farmers who want ASCS measurement service should get their requests in as soon as possible. This service is offered at cost and can provide assurance to a producer before he certifies that he is in compliance with program regulations.

Farmer certification, which has been operating for several years, means that the producer who is participating in the feed grain, wheat, or cotton programs comes into the county ASCS office and certifies to his crop acreages, his set- aside acreage if any, that his farm is in compliance with all program regulations and will continue in compliance throughout the year.

Program payments follow certification and will begin in July. In fact, Recker said, almost all payments will be made the week of July 1. "July 2 will be the biggest day," he said, "since the first comes on a Sunday."

Correct certification is very important to a producer, the ASC committee chairman pointed out. An error can result in loss of some or all of the farm program payment.

"That's why the measurement service is offered -- to cut down on mistakes that can cost the farmer -- and we also urge producers who have questions about certification to call or come into the ASCS office. Every farmer should know exactly what he is certifying before he signs his name," Recker said.

The ASC committee chairman also reminded farmers that they can certify just as soon as they have their program crops planted and know they are in compliance. "Certification may be made any time between now and July 2," he said, "and the earlier certification is made, the more assured everyone is that those program payments will be ready when July rolls around."

Spot checks are made each year on farms participating in the programs. Farms to be spot- checked are selected on a random basis, the ASC committee chairman said. "New Madrid County farmers have an excellent record," he added, "and few errors have been found in past years. Usually these have been minor."

Missouri planting conditions better

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Planting conditions improved slightly in Missouri last week, with three days suitable for field work, according to the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Pastures remained in good condition in all sections except the Bootheel, where they are fair to good.

Reports indicated 24 per cent of the state corn crop unplanted. Progress ranged from 90 per cent complete in the Bootheel to only 66 per cent in west-central sections of the state.

Statewide, planting of soybeans is only 33 per cent complete compared with 84 per cent a year ago.

Grain sorghum was 37 per cent planted, up 18 per cent from the previous week but well below the 86 per cent of 1972.

The reporting service said 88 per cent of the cotton crop was in, and planting could be considered complete. Some acreage was plowed up last week because of poor stands and will be replanted with soybeans due to the lateness of the season.

Fifty per cent of the wheat was showing color last week, compared to 83 per cent a year ago.

Spring floods result in worst erosion in Missouri history

COLUMBIA— "April showers traditionally bring May flowers. But unhappily, this April boiling black clouds and angry lightning brought the worst erosion and flood damage recorded in Missouri history," reports J. Vernon Martin, state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service headquartered at Columbia.

The persistent rains of an intensity expected only once every 150 to 200 years produced extensive sheet and gully erosion that ripped away the unprotected soil from both urban and rural communities alike.

Of the 44 million acres in Missouri, few escaped with less than 20 tons per acre soil loss unless they were protected by soil conservation measures. Eight million acres suffered 50 to 60 tons per acre losses. More critical areas approached 200 tons measurable soil losses, an amount normally lost in five years from continuous corn raising on a six per cent slope.

Unprotected construction sites frequently lost sediment amounting to 500 to 800 tons per acre. Top soil one inch deep from an acre of Missouri land will weigh 150 tons. Most Missouri acres have less than seven inches of top soil remaining.

The sediment produced by the extensive erosion on unprotected land was deposited on roads, along roadsides, in water supply lakes and streams, in drainage ditches, city streets, neighbors' yards, river channels and on bottomland fields.

Martin points out that the multi- million dollar conservation systems installed by Missouri's conservation farmers teamed with the upstream watershed protection and flood prevention projects to effectively hold back huge volumes of water that reduced erosion and flood damage throughout the state and especially on 5 million acres of conservation protected cropland.

"Even though some conservation measures were severely damaged," Martin said, "they did hold erosion at a five to six- ton per acre rate with only a few exceptions reaching the 10- ton per acre level. All watershed structures performed according to design and some of the emergency spillways were used during the storms."

"The effect," Martin said, "is certain to be felt in the pocketbook of everyone in the state as damage losses continue to mount higher and higher from the early damage estimate of $28 million.

"Over 5 million bottomland acres in 480 watersheds in the state were subject to flooding. Sixteen million acres of cropland received a staggering blow from erosion and sediment damage. One early estimate predicts one million acres of Missouri cropland will not be farmed this year."

"Any landowner can request assistance from his local soil and water conservation district board," Martin explains, "and then the SCS can help him plan and install a system of protective conservation measures on his land. There are currently 98 conservation districts in the state providing this service," "Martin points out.

Soybean prices up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by soybeans, farm prices jumped four per cent last month and averaged 33 per cent more than in May last year, the Agriculture Department said

Soybeans registered the sharpest increase, rising to a national average of $8.27 per bushel, a boost of $2.13 from April. Since last fall, soybeans have increased $5.01 per bushel, the department said. In May last year, they brought $3.35 per bushel.

The increase represented a sharp recovery from April, when the farm price index dipped 1.5 per cent. That was the first decline in prices farmers receive in a year.

Otherwise, according to USDA, farm prices have risen consistently in 1973. Those increases include: January, 5 per cent; February, 3; March 7.

Prices for all beef cattle averaged $43.50 per hundred weight in the May report, up $1.10 from April and only 10 cents below the record set in March, the report said.

Cotton prices went up 12 per cent from April, including a boost of 3.2 cents for upland cotton, which averaged 30.25 cents per pound. That was still below the May 1972 price of 31.7 cents per pound, however.

Corn, at $1.61 per bushel was the highest in more than 20 years, the report said. Corn brought $1.42 in April and $1.15 per bushel in May last year.

Potato prices averaged $4.66 per hundred weight, compared with $3.96 in April and $1.99 in May 1972.

Prices that farmers pay out to meet expenses rose two per cent during the month and averaged 14 per cent more than a year ago, the report said.

Player remains leader

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Gary Player, a gritty little figure of 5 feet, 8 inches and 149 pounds, marveled as he watched his playing partner, Tom Weiskopf, throw all of his towering 185 pounds into a thundercap drive.

"If I had a body like that," the South African remarked to a friend. "nobody would beat me."

They weren't beating the "Little Black Knight" as the 73rd U.S. Open Golf Championship moved into the third round today at the aged Oakmont Country Club.

On Friday, Player shot a second straight sub-par round—a 70—for a 137 that gave him the halfway lead.

Player had a one-stroke edge over Jim Colbert, who shot 7068—138.

Jack Nicklaus was not far behind.

Astros edge Cards

HOUSTON (AP)— Houston Astros catcher Bob Watson seems to have proved his point that switching positions hasn't hurt his batting skills.

Watson, playing his first major league game as a catcher Friday night, clouted a solo home run in the eighth inning to break a tie and give the Astros a 3- 2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Watson, a leftfielder all season for the Astros and among the Top 10 hitters in the National League, was given a shot at catching in spring training. It didn't work out.

"I don't know what the reasons were for Leo Durocher not using me as a catcher before this," Watson said. "In the spring he said catching might detract from my hitting.

"But I've said I'm going to hit whether I catch, play the outfield or first base. I'm going to hit."

Houston took a 2- 0 lead in the third inning when Tommy Agee, who has replaced Watson in leftfield, clouted a two- run homer, his first in the Astrodome as an Astro.

Joe Torre made it a 2- 2 deadlock in the fifth with a homer of his own.

Alan Foster, who went the distance for the Cards, was the loser, and Dave Roberts, although he needed help, was the winner.

Legislature pushes through health, welfare, consumer bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bills to comply with federal regulations, health and welfare measures and consumer interest bills were among legislation pushed through the Missouri legislature Friday on the last day of the 1973 regular session.

One of the bills would regulate ambulance companies and require first aid training for drivers and attendants.

The bill was amended to include a "Good Samaritan" section from a bill defeated earlier in the Senate. The section removes doctors and other medical personnel from liability if they give aid at an emergency and were later sued.

Other bills would:

—Have the state take over the Bothwell Lodge just north of Sedalia for cultural or educational purposes.

—Moderize the state divorce laws by allowing a divorce without fault if both parties agreed their marriage was irretrievably broken. Other divorces would be tried under present law.

—Issue $8 million in bond issues for water pollution projects.

—Require pharmacists to place the name and dosage of a prescription on container labels.

—Allow students at any Missouri University branch to transfer their credits to other branches.

—Require public buildings, except schools, to have ramps, sidewalks, handrails, doors and elevators to accommodate handicapped persons.

—License speech pathologists and audiologists under the healing arts commission.

—Establish a Division of Highway Safety in the Office of Administration to act as the principle state agency for obtaining federal funds under the National Highway Safety Act of 1966. It would have planning and study functions relating to highway safety, and the director would have to have at least five years of experience in that field.

—Bring the Missouri Clean Water Law into compliance with federal regulations, and increase the power of the executive secretary of the Clean Water Commission to regulate violators.

The bill also tightens current regulations and increases the daily penalty for violations from $5,000 to $10,000.

—Allow circuit court clerks to keep all records of the courts and use new systems of keeping records, subject to approval by the judges. It also provides for a 25 per cent pay increase.

—Provides that if two or more people conspire to commit a felony they are guilty of a felony, and if they conspire to commit a misdemeanor they would be guilty of a misdemeanor.

—Add a new judge to the judicial circuit including Pulaski County, and one to the Greene County circuit.

—Provide that tax abatement certificates be issued to persons owning or leasing land considered to be blighted, if they plan to develop the area.

—Permit anyone buying a product from a door-to-door salesman to cancel the order within three days after the purchase is made.

—Require coroners to report to the Missouri Division of Highway Safety the circumstances surrounding motor vehicle accident deaths and allow them to test for alcohol or drug use.

—Permit the governor to authorize the Department of Community Affairs to make annual payments to the various regional planning commissions.

—Permit the payment of Aid to Dependant Children in cases where an unemployed father is living at home.

—Provide that Aid to Dependent Children benefits would be payable to a child and needy guardian if the child has been deprived of parental support because of death, absence or mental incapacity of the parent.

—Discontinue the state brucellosis law and put the state under the federal law allowing higher indemnities to cattlemen who have to have their cattle killed to stop the spread of the infection which causes sterility.

—Allow licensed embalmers, having completed a certified course, to remove the eyes of voluntary donors who have died, to be used for transplants.

—Provide an exemption up to the first $3,000 from state income tax for persons serving in the military in Missouri.

90 bills left on House, Senate calendars at adjournment time

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The bill to reinstate the death penalty in Missouri died on the Senate calendar in the waning hours of the Missouri General Assembly's 77th session Friday night.

It was one of about 90 bills that were left on the House and Senate calendars when adjournment came at midnight.

Sen. Frank Bild, a Republican from St. Louis County, made repeated attempts to get recognition from Senate leaders for action on the death penalty bill, but to no avail.

The bill, which passed the House with overwhelming approval, was considered one of the priority pieces of legislation for this session by many legislators.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, who says he favors restoration of the death penalty, made no mention of the bill's demise in his post adjournment news conference.

House majority floor leader Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, who opposed the bill "personally," said he regretted its failure to pass "only to the extent that it was the will of the House."

House speaker Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, who personally favors restoring capital punishment, said he was "very disappointed" at its failure, as was the minority floor leader, Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood.

Senate majority floor leader Lawrence J. Lee, D-St. Louis, strongly opposed to the death penalty, helped defeat it in the Senate.

Also killed by inaction in the Senate was a controversial bill to provide regulation of abortions in Missouri.

The bill passed the House, but opponents said it contained clauses that made it unconstitutional because they regulated abortions in the first three months of pregnancy.

The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled the decision to have an abortion in the first three months of pregnancy is between the woman and her physician.

The Senate graveyard of bills also included a measure to grant the full rights and responsibilities of adults to 19-year-olds.

The proposal ran into trouble in the Senate because the House restored a provision to allow 18-year-olds to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

Among other bills that ran out of time were proposals to:

—Outlaw prostitution.

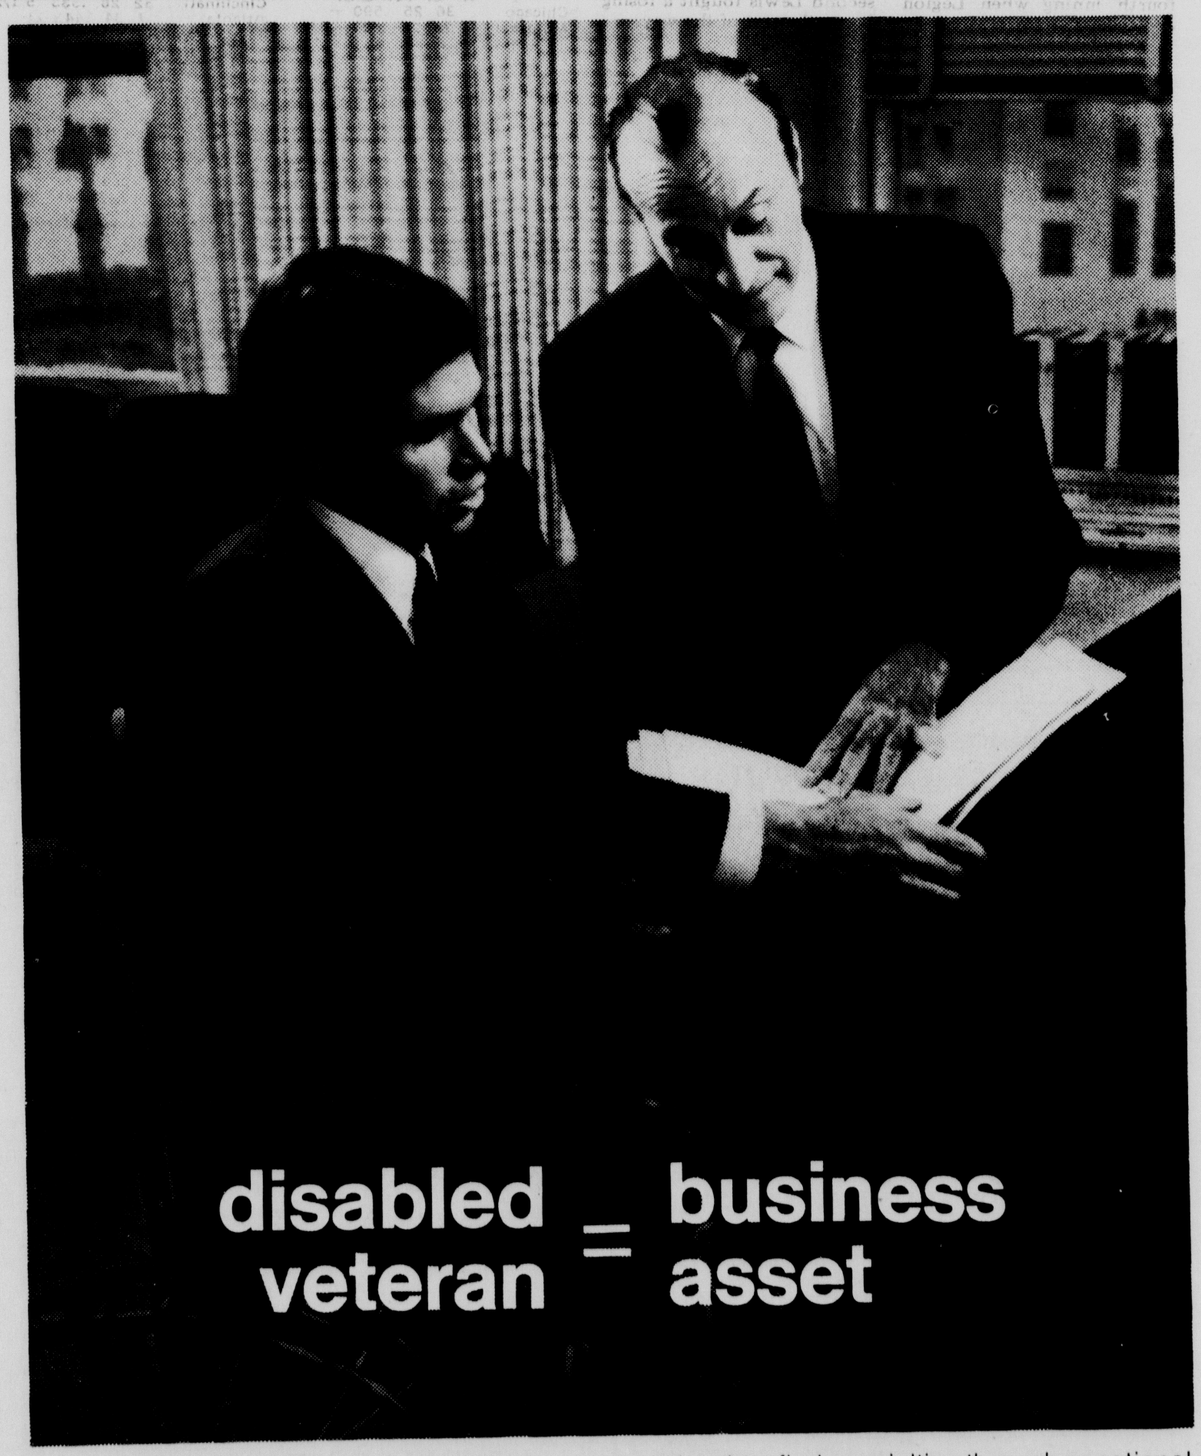

—Provide new judges for the St. Louis and Kansas City Court of Appeals.

—Permit the state Division of Health to enter into contracts with private schools and colleges of medicine and the division would pay $4,000 a year for each student.

disabled veteran = business asset

It's true. Many disabled veterans have been trained in hard-to-find specialties through vocational rehabilitation. Disabled veterans offer more than experience and skills: they have the kind of determination that makes them better employees . . . with fewer absences and accidents . . . with higher productivity and employer loyalty. For help in hiring disabled veterans, contact your local office of the Veterans Administration or the State Employment Service.

June 15, 1973

To Our Friends and Neighbors in Sikeston:

We are sorry! Truly sorry! I am sure you know we are sincerely sorry, both from your point of view and ours that the rains keep coming. Most of all, we wish we could have been right there in April or May to finish up, clean up, and landscape your fine new Main Street Project. We promise you that we have been checking daily to assure ourselves and you that the moment conditions are right we will be hard at work to finish up at the earliest date possible. Aren't you glad that up to now we haven't been in there moving piles of dirt and rock around for the showers to turn into more mud than ever? To do productive work we must be able to get into the ditches as well as the high spots so just a dry day or two doesn't help.

We are really not letter writers, we are road builders, but since the weather has had us waiting for so long, we know that you are rightfully getting anxious to have full use of your fine new facility. We just want to assure you that we are going to be there with bells on the moment we believe we can do good productive work. We further assure you that your Highway Department is seeing to that. I am sure you realize that they are most anxious to see us move as rapidly as possible. It is one of those unfortunate things that this project had to come about during the most prolonged wet period ever, especially in view of your critical drainage situation.

Another purpose in writing this letter is to thank all of you, but most particularly those of you with businesses along the route, for your extreme patience and kindness. You all have really been great and good friends and neighbors and we want you to know how much we do sincerely appreciate it.

In closing let us pledge to you our best efforts in making the final phases of the project as painless and speedy as possible. We hope to be able to resume work very soon. Surely someone will finally close the "water gate".

Sincerely yours,

Medicare coverage to be extended

Starting July 1, Medicare coverage will be extended to 1.7 million disabled people under 65.

Disabled people who have received social security disability payments for two years or more will be able to get help from Medicare in paying their hospital and doctor bills and other covered services, according to Clifford Forsee, social security district manager in Cape Girardeau. Medicare was previously available only to people 65 or over.

"Those eligible for coverage." Forsee said, "will include disabled workers, disabled widows and disabled dependent widowers widowers between 50 and 65, disabled mothers 50 or older who get social security benefits because they have young or disabled children in their care, and people who get benefits because they were disabled before age 22."

People getting monthly social security checks because they are disabled will be notified if they are eligible for Medicare. Widows 50 or over who have been severely disabled the last 2 years but haven's filed a claim because they're getting checks as mothers caring for young or disabled children should apply for disabled widows benefits to see if they can get Medicare.

Starting July 1, the basic monthly premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare will be $6.50, an increase of 50 cents a month over the current rate. "Disabled people require seven times as much hospital care as other people and three times as much service from doctors," Forsee said.

What's the law?

The case of the worrisome partner

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Otto and his partner operated their business like two men on a unicycle. And because they kept their noses to the grindstone without turning them up to anybody, they became very successful. Not only did their partnership enjoy a reputation for reliability, however, it also enjoyed a reputation for fiscal responsibility which Otto, particularly, took pride in.

Consequently, when the partnership issued a sizable check to a customer in the normal course of business and it was erroneously returned by their bank marked "insufficient funds," poor Otto developed an ulcer from worry. What's more, he blamed his ulcer on the bank's carelessness and sued the bank for causing it.

"It was like a catastro- stroke," complained Otto in court. "After years of carefully chaperoning our reputation for fiscal responsibility, the bank damaged it with one negligent act, I was sick over it for months."

"If any injury was caused," responded the bank, "It was to Otto's partnership and not to worrisome Otto. While the bank might be responsible if the partnership got an ulcer, it's not responsible because Otto got one. Therefore, his case, obviously, should be dismissed."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the bank liable for worrisome Otto's ulcer?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the bank's customer was the partnership and not the individual partners. Therefore, concluded the judge, while the bank may have breached an obligation to the partnership by wrongfully dishonoring its check, the bank did not breach any obligation to Otto so as to entitle Otto to collect for his ulcer from the bank.

Missouri salutes farm family of the year

COLUMBIA — The David J. Gier family of Russellville, Moniteau County, has been named Missouri's FHA Farm Family of the Year, according to John O. Foster, State Director.

The family is representative of approximately 8,000 Farmers Home Administration farm borrowers in Missouri. They have demonstrated the progress that can be made with full utilization of available land, labor and capital.

Congressman Richard Ichord gave special recognition to the family at a luncheon in Jefferson City on June 15. The national sponsors of the FHA Farm Family of the Year presented Mr. and Mrs. Gier a special plaque.

This is the third family that has been honored in the Farmers Home Administration's state "Farm Family of the Year" program. The award was established in 1970 as a means of honoring families that have demonstrated outstanding progress as farmers and rural citizens.

Farming methods, financial progress, family living, property improvement, community leadership and overcoming adversities are some of the criteria used in making the selection.

As recipient of Missouri's Farm Family Award, the Giers will now compete for national farm family honors.

Good combining result in high wheat yields

BLOOMFIELD— Wheat harvest is just around the corner, and farmers should make plans now for combining the crop, according to Tom Brown, area agronomy specialist. A good job of combining will result in higher yields of quality wheat harvested this season.

A first step in making such plans should be to check the combine to be sure that it is in good mechanical condition. This should be done as soon as possible to allow sufficient time for making necessary repairs prior to wheat harvest. Lost time due to breakdowns and harvest losses can be costly unless steps are taken to prevent them.

The second step should be to make the necessary combine adjustments to properly harvest wheat. The combine operator's manual should be used as a guide to set the combine before going to the field.

As a third step, a trial run should be made through the field during which the grain in the bin and combine losses should be checked and needed adjustments should be made for proper combining.

Finally, the threshed grain and field losses should be checked several times each day as field conditions often change from one part of the field to another and moisture content often changes throughout the day.

In operating the combine, speed is one of the most important considerations. This speed should be correct, and the combine should be operated at a steady speed. The correct speed may be found in the operator's manual.

If the combine is not doing a good job of threshing, increase the cylinder speed or reduce the conclave clearance. If the combine is over threshing so the straw is chewed up, increase the conclave clearance.

If there are big pieces of straw or heads in the grain bin, close down the lower sieve a little. If there is light chaff in the grain bin, increase the wind blast.

If there are cracked or skinned kernels, take a look at the material in the tailings auger. This should contain pieces of heads, but only a little grain. Excessive recirculation damages kernels. If there is a large amount of threshed grain in the tailings auger, check the wind blast. It may be too high or directed too far to the rear, or the lower adjustable sieve may be closed too far.

If grain is being carried over with the straw, overloading may be the cause. Set the cutterbar as high as possible without leaving grain, or reduce forward speed.

If it is difficult to adjust the combine, check your operator's manual or talk to your equipment dealer.

Boys selected to attend are sponsored by one of the local civic clubs. The four boys selected to go this year are Mike Stephens, Harold Parris, Jerry Robinson and Larry Capps. All four will be seniors at Dexter High School this fall.

Travel means danger

The vacation months of June, July and August make up a potentially dangerous period of the year for highway travelers, it was noted today by Col. Sam S. Smith, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Motor vehicle travel takes on a special significance during this time of the year as many families spend a large part of their vacation traveling the highways," Smith stated. "For most vacations it is an enjoyable time of the year. But for thousands of others it becomes a time of sorrow and regret because of traffic accidents and the resulting deaths and injuries.

"Last year in the Nation, 15,600 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the months of June, July and August - 413 of them died in Missouri," Colonel Smith continued. "These facts should convince motorists that every precaution should be taken in an effort to make travel safer during these three months this year."

The Patrol Superintendent recommended the following basic protective measures to vacationing motorists: Make certain the vehicle you drive is in safe mechanical condition BEFORE you begin your vacation trip; wear safety belts, drive within the limits of your stamina and never when tired; obey the maximum speed limits - reduce your speed when conditions warrant; and drive defensively - watch for the mistakes of others.

Stoddard led production

KENNETT — Dunklin County led the state in cotton acreage last year, while Stoddard County led in soybean production, according to statistics released today by the Missouri Department of Agriculture.

A total of 115,500 acres of cotton was planted in Dunklin County, although soybean acreage harvested outdistanced cotton by some 13,000 acres, the total being 129,000.

Pemiscot came in second in cotton acreage, with 109,700; New Madrid third with 103,900; and Stoddard foruth with only 44,100. The only other counties in the state to grow cotton were Buchanan with 21,100; Mississippi with 21,600; Ripley with 1,700; and Scott with 17,300.

Some 3,960,000 acres of soybeans were harvested in the state in 1972, according to the department's figures. Stoddard led the state with 234,000 harvested. Coming in a close second was New Madrid County with 225,000; Pemiscot third with 132,000; and Dunklin fourth with 129,000.

All of the state's 114 counties had some soybean acreage with the exception of Christian, Iron, Stone, Texas and Camden.

Other crops planted in Dunklin last year were wheat, totaling 47,900 acres harvested; 6,000 acres in corn; 1,900 acres in sorghum and 100 acres in oats.

Livestock statistics in Dunklin showed 10,100 hogs, and 8,700 head of cattle, including 2,900 beef cows and; 100 milk cows.

Other data released showed the annual average farm wages paid were $14.40 a day without room and board or $11 a day with room and board; or $1.77 per hour.

Farm land and buildings in the state were valued at $8.4 billion last year, up 10 per cent from a year earlier. Average value per acre was $260, $24 higher than in 1971.

Statewide, soybean growers enjoyed a banner year in 1972, according to the department. Despite record production, a strong demand pushed average prices to record levels. Poor harvest conditions last fall also contributed to higher prices for corn as well as beans.

Cotton prices averaged three cents per pound higher last year than in 1971. The high of 33.0 cents in April was 10 cents above the same month in 1971.

Missouri ranks fourth in the nation in cash receipts for hogs and soybeans, seventh for corn, eighth for all commodities, ninth for livestock and livestock products, and tenth for cattle and dairy products.

Thailand's capital, Bangkok, is not much older than Washington, D.C. It was founded in 1782, after the Burmese had sacked the old capital, Ayutthaya, 45 miles to the north.

Partisan politics hinder last session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Partisan politics got in the way of the legislative mission Friday — the last day of the session — as all the Republican Senators boycotted the Senate for nearly four hours.

Although several dozen bills awaited action on the Senate calendar, the 13 senators walked out of the chamber in support of Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps.

Phelps said he was barred from the chamber after he insisted on presiding. The Senate doors were locked and only Senators and reporters were allowed to enter.

Phelps chose the closing hours, the most important hours, of the session, to challenge Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, over the question of who presides.

Cason, the president pro tem, has relieved Phelps of the chair several times since January, especially when sensitive legislation was pending. Phelps presided Friday morning but Cason told him not to do so in the afternoon.

When Phelps tried to take the dais in the afternoon, Cason ordered the sergeant-at-arms to remove him from the chamber.

"I object. I object. I am the president of the Senate. This denies me of my Constitutional right to preside," Phelps said as he was escorted out. He said the Constitution provides he should cast tie-breaking votes when necessary.

He was waving his arms and still hollering as he was pushed out the door.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, a Republican like Phelps, filed for a writ of prohibition with the Supreme Court in an effort to get Phelps back in the chair before the midnight adjournment. But the court said it could not consider the merits of the case in the short time available.

Phelps, somewhat dejected when he heard the news, said he would pursue the matter further in the courts by seeking a declaratory judgment. He accused the Democratic leaders of trying to steal the Senate presidency.

Cason pointed out that Senate rules, which were agreed to early this session by all the Republican Seantors, provide that the lieutenant governor shall preside at the will of the president pro tem. Cason said he had intended to allow Phelps to sit in the chamber and cast any tiebreaking votes, but found it necessary to eject him because of the loud and continuing protest.

Cason said he took control because "we needed someone with experience in the chair," in the windup of the session. He said Phelps had been available to preside only 33 out of 81 possible times this session.

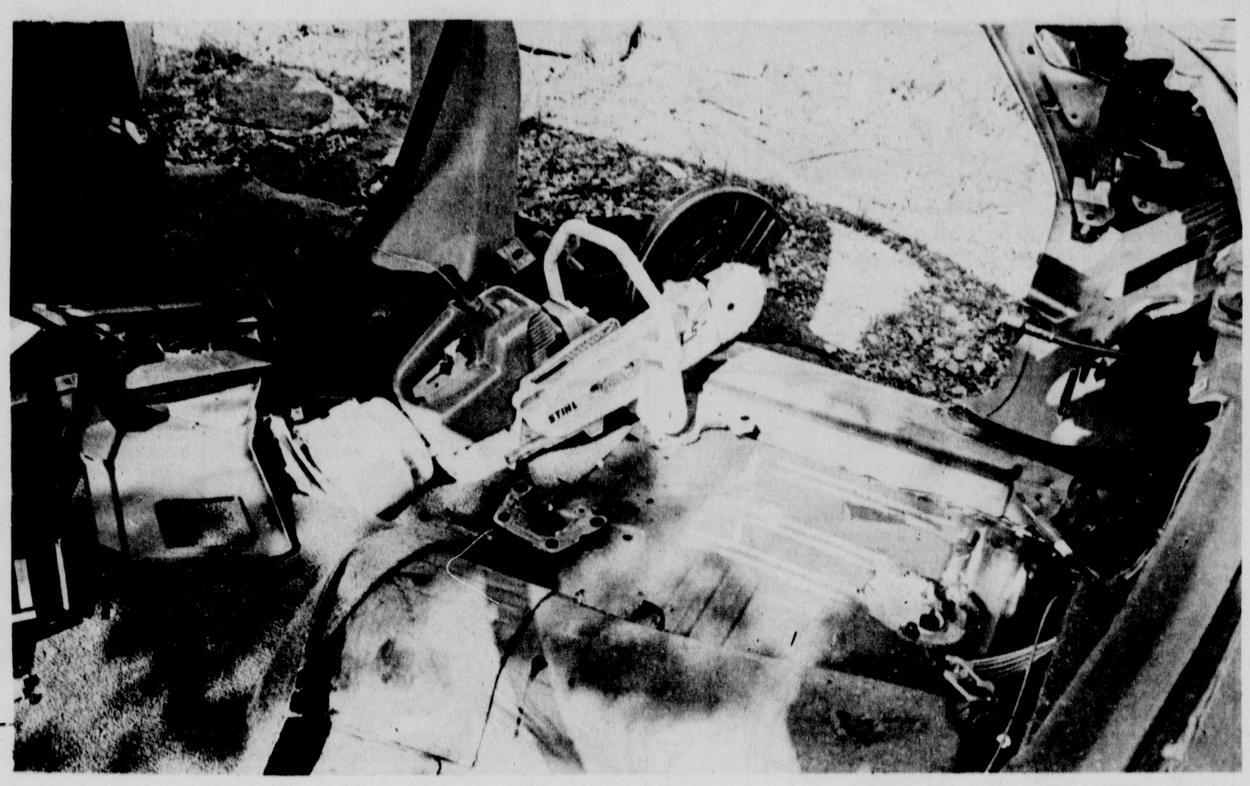

"Full- time Phelps is really only part- time," Cason said, referring to Phelps' campaign pledge to be a full- time lieutenant governor.

Several of the Republicans were unable to present their bills as the Democrats proceeded with the Senate calendar.

Sen. Lawrence Lee, D- St. Louis, the majority floor leader, called the walkout "Childish" and said it caused some bills to be passed and some to fail, when the opposite might have occurred if every part of the state had been represented.

"They certainly have done a disservice to their constituents," Lee said.

But Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R- Brentwood, who said "I orchestrated this," defended the walkout.

Car Cutter

A power saw used for cutting automobiles into pieces was left in the front of a 1973 automobile Friday when police arrived at Sikeston Auto Salvage on West Malone Avenue. Police arrested three men for possession of stolen automobiles during a raid on the firm which may have been involved in a major auto theft ring.

which passed by substantial margins in both houses before different bills were sent to a conference, had the backing of the governor.

Disputes between the legislature and the legislature occurred throughout the 5½month session.

Early in the session, the Senate convinced Gov. Christopher S. Bond to withdraw his first appointment, Robert L. James, named commissioner of administration.

Then both houses admonished the governor for asking agency heads to clear testimony before committees with the governor's legislative assistant. Bond apologized and said he did not intend for the memorandum to be intended as an order to withhold information from the legislature.

The Senate rejected the appointment of Edward Haynes as head of the personnel system because the eligibility list had been changed.

Democratic legislators won a suit against the governor's veto of wording in an appropriations bill.

The Senate never acted on the appointments of Lee R. Schuster of St. Joseph as a University of Missouri Curator and Sen. James A. Noland, R-Osage Beach, as a member of the tourism commission. Friday night, Bond withdrew Schuster's nomination.

The Senate finally confirmed Charles M. Kiefner, Bond's southwest Missouri campaign manager last fall, as adjutant general. Kiefner was nominated in January.

The bulk of final action on bills came in the closing days.

Thursday, the legislature sent two major proposals—an open meetings bill and statewide voter registration—to the governor.

A major tax proposal, a halfcent sales tax for transportation, was approved and already has been signed by the governor.

Bills to increase the legislators' daily expense allotment from $10 to $25 a day passed with little difficulty, and Friday, final approval was given to a bill lifting the statutory limit of 200 employes that legislators can hire.

The bill also removes the 10 cents a mile limit on travel expenses, allowing it to be set equal to that of all other state employes, which is determined by the Office of Administration.

Also approved Friday and sent to the governor were bills to allow the Division of Health to coordinate a statewide emergency medical system, regulate and license all ambulances in the state, and have the Department of Education set up a program for educating mentally and physically handicapped children.

The education bill is expected to cost $7.3 million the first year.

The education department will be allowed to begin a census in October to find out how many children there are and where they are.

A bill to allow the Corrections Department to inspect all jails was defeated in a rural-urban split in the Senate.

The tax relief measure applies to persons over 65 earning less than $7,500 a year.

It will go into effect in October and is expected to affect 133,000 persons. However, only a third of those are expected to participate the first year.

The bill gives property owners an income tax rebate on this formula:

Four per cent of the income deducted from the tax bill gives the income tax credit. Eighteen per cent of the year's rent would be equal to a property tax bill. The percentage goes by increments down to 3 per cent of the income in the middle range, such as $4,000.

Fuel bids called for

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state has called for bids on more than 5 millions of fuel for the 1973-74 fiscal year, says Herbert C. Damron, director of contracting and procurement for the state.

"That June 20 date for opening bids could be an important mark in the lives of many Missourians, depending on how the current fuel shortage affects bidding for the state contract," Damron said Friday.

"The interest of the public requires that bidding companies consider the necessity of furnishing petroleum products to state institutions at the lowest price possible," Damron said. "Over inflationary pricing could eventually result in reduction of state services to the taxpayer."

Damron said the specifications called for bids on the state's fuel requirements for one year.

He said the division submitted invitations for bid to 33 fuel jobbers and distributors, including the large national distributors.

In addition, Damron has called on the executive directors of the Missouri Oil Council and Missouri Oil Jobbers to assist the state in obtaining bids.

BRINE AND DANDY

Be ready for a new world of taste adventure when you add your favorite spirits to marinades for roasts and barbecues.

Build up flavors with mixed cocktails—Martinis for broiling chicken, a Bourbon Sour mixture for barbecued butterflied lamb leg, for instance. Or take advantage of the easy yet distinctive sweet-sour accents of liqueurs in marinades for Oriental specialties.

There is more to these savory mixtures than just the barbecue main course. In the early days of our country, spirit marinades were used in preserving fruits and vegetables.

We still use spirits in preserved or canned fruits and vegetables. You can transform ordinary cooked or canned vegetables into glamorous appetizers. It's as simple as pouring off part of the cooking liquid and replacing with spirits to add delectable aromatic flavor.

Party guests will "Oh" and "ah" when they taste your Bourbonned beets, olives in gin, and Scotched green beans.

CARIBBEAN CUISINE

The term "melting pot" commonly means a place where in which immigrants of various nationalities and races are assimilated. The U.S. Virgin Islands is such a place. Here, however, the term "melting pot" may also be applied to the exotic, taste-tempting food of the beautiful islands.

A multi-national melange of ingredients fuse to form many delicious dishes. One--called "Kalaloo"--is a lulu. Its recipe tells a capsule history of the islands.

"Kalaloo" itself is the name of a local form of wild spinach probably native to the Caribbean. The okra that figures prominently among the ingredients is likely of African origin, as is the majority of the islands' population. The salt meat is a tribute to the ships' stores of the endless armadas from all nations that have passed through these islands.

The crab and fish are natural contributions from the sea. And the general "philosophy" of the exotic dish probably stems from a variety of seaside cultures: the French "Bouillabaisse"; the Spanish "Zarzuela"; Louisiana's "Gumbo" and many other nations' thick fish stew-soup concoctions.

On the islands, the recipe varies greatly to accommodate individual tastes and seasonal availability of ingredients. Mainlanders, too, can now enjoy variations on the theme once the general idea is understood. Here's one popular way of preparing Kalaloo in your own kitchen:

KALALOO

1½ lbs. salt meat (ham, ham bone, bacon)
3 qts. water
3 lbs. fresh spinach
2 garlic cloves
12 fresh okra pods (or 1 pkg. frozen)
1 large onion chopped together with a sprig of parsley and a stalk of celery
1 small hot pepper
2 tbsp. vinegar
1½ lbs. fresh or frozen fish fillets
2 cans prepared crab meat

Boil salt meat in 3 qts. of water until tender. Put spinach, garlic and okra (from which stems have been removed) through good grinder. Add with chopped vegetables, pepper and vinegar to meat and boil for about 20 minutes. Add fish and crab meat and continue boiling another 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily. Do not skim while boiling. Serve piping hot in soup bowls.

This and other culinary creations of the Virgin Islands is as lilting as the native Calypso language which contains traces of many tongues.

Salvage yard probed

3 arrested in Sikeston raid; stolen cars found

The Scott County sheriff's department, city police and the State Highway Patrol have apparently smashed a major stolen car ring in Sikeston as a result of a raid Friday afternoon at Sikeston Auto Salvage, 1615 W. Malone Ave.

Arrested were the salvage firm owner, Dennis Wilson, 26, of 810 Wayne, Larry Wayne Gilbert, 27, of Essex and Gary Dean Irvin, 17, of Morehouse. All three were placed on $10,000 bond. Only Wilson had posted bail by this morning.

Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore said this morning that charges of possession of stolen vehicles will be filed today against all three.

A highway patrol expert on automobile serial numbers was sent to Sikeston from Kirkwood Friday. All of the automobiles were believed stolen in the St. Louis area, then shipped to Sikeston.

The stolen cars were cut apart and sold as parts. When police arrived at the salvage yard they found several cars in various stages of being dismantled.

Irvin allegedly was in the process of cutting a car in half when Trooper Jerry Crisman walked up and told him his work day was over.

Irvin reportedly stopped working and asked if it was all right if he went to the office for a soft drink. Crisman told him to go ahead.

After reading Irvin his rights, Crismon asked him if he didn't think there was something unusual about cutting up so many cars. Irvin reportedly replied, "When you work for a man, you don't ask questions."

Four motors found in the main building were quickly identified as being stolen, according to officers. More than 30 others in an adjacent shed were being checked today.

No value has yet been placed on the stolen vehicles, most of which were late model cars.

13 hurt in 6 accidents

Thirteen persons were injured Friday in six area traffic accidents, the highway patrol announced today.

Bruce Wayne Penrod, 19, of Jackson received facial cuts and a possible shoulder injury at 7:30 a.m. when he passed another vehicle, lost control, struck a drain culvert and overturned on Highway 61 five miles north of Jackson.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Charles Winston Lemmons, 49, of Houston was injured at 11 a.m. 10 miles northwest of Poplar Bluff when he fell asleep at the wheel, ran off the road and struck an embankment on Highway 60. The patrol said Lemmons had just been released from Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff and apparently had fallen asleep from medication.

He was taken to Veterans Hospital with minor injuries.

Two persons were injured at 8:15 a.m. on Highway 61 at Uniontown.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Gladys Irene Hopfer, 58, of Uniontown made a left turn into the path of a southbound car driven by Jimmy Dale Mitchell, 27, of Sedalia. The right side of the Mitchell auto struck the right side of the Hopfer car.

Mitchell received head cuts and his wife, Linda Sue Mitchell, 25, suffered bruises and scratches. They were treated and released at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Albert Harrell, 70, of House Springs received cuts and a possible neck and back injury at 10:50 p.m. one-half mile north of Perryville on Highway 61 when he made a left turn into the path of a car driven by Frank Bahr, 73, of Ste. Genevieve.

Bahr suffered a possible neck injury, and both were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

Two cars collided at 2:30 p.m. on Highway 61 at the north edge of the Perryville city limits, injuring two persons.

The accident occurred when a car driven north by James Osborn, 68, of Freeburg, Ill., failed to yield the right of way and made a left turn into the path of a southbound car driven by Mark Hobis, 18, of Perryville.

Injured were Ida Osborn, 61, of Freeburg, arm and shoulder injury, and Mabel Tucker, 65, of Perryville, minor injuries. Both were passengers in the Osborn car and were taken to the Perry County hospital.

Five persons were injured in a one- car accident at 4:30 p.m. on Interstate 55 two miles south of Perryville.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Walter Schaeffer, 48, of Belleville, Ill., had a blowout, ran off the right side of the road, overturned and rolled down an embankment.

Injured were Schaeffer, possible shoulder injury, and Angeline Schaeffer, 49, Elizabeth Schaeffer, 14, Mark Schaeffer, 12, and Angela Schaeffer, 7, bruises and scratches. All were taken to the Perry County hospital.

Bruce, Campbell asked to resign

The decision to ask for their resignations was reached Monday during a secret session of the City Council.

Bruce is being asked to resign for "the good of the department," Huff said. He added that Campbell is being asked to leave because of his close association with Bruce.

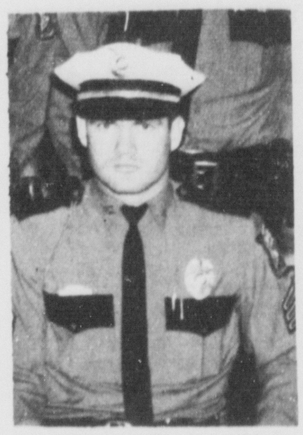

Huff said Bruce's drinking and health problems were major factors in the decision. Bruce has been troubled for sometime with back problems and is currently waiting to undergo an operation in Memphis.

Bruce was contacted today and said he had no comment on the city's request, but that he would have something to say later.

Arthur Bruce

He said he was informed of the decision by a long distance telephone call from Huff while in Memphis. He said he had had no meeting with Huff or the council.

Leonard Campbell

Sgt. Leon Culp has been serving as acting chief during Bruces' absence.

Campbell could not be reached today for comment, but he is reportedly planning to ask for a meeting with the City Council to appeal the decision.

Bruce has been police chief for more than 15 years. In 1971 he was placed on a 90- day probation over alleged police corruption and misconduct. His probation was lifted in 1972 and Raymert Miller, then city manager, gave Bruce his complete support.

Campbell has been a detective since November 1971 when he was promoted from sergeant to lieutenant. The promotion was the result of a probe of the police department which indicated the need for a criminal investigation unit.

Huff said the City Council would have a statement on the resignations at a council meeting Monday morning. Huff assed that the city has not considered who will replace the two men.

Major reforms achieved by Missouri lawmakers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP)— Missouri's 1973 legislative session went out like it came in— with a battle between the legislative and executive branches of government.

The last battle was along political lines; the first wasn't.

But in between, especially in the last week, the 197 Missouri lawmakers achieved major reform in taxation, elections, education and operation of government.

On the closing night, a bill to give 18- year- olds the right to buy and consume liquor was defeated and a bill to reinstate the death penalty died for lack of action.

The Missouri Senate was stalled for about four hours Friday afternoon when the Republicans walked out in support of Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps, who refused to surrender the president's chair to the Senate president pro tem, Sen. William J. Cason, D- Clinton. Phelps was removed by the sergeant-at- arms.

Back in January, when the Senators- 21 Democrats and 13 Republicans- adopted their rules, Cason said he could foresee the day whe he would like to have control of the body to direct the debate.

The rules allowed Cason to assume the chair whenever he wanted. Phelps has maintained the constitution gives him power to preside and vote in cases of ties.

The Supreme Court denied Phelps' last- minute petition, because, the justices said, they need more time to consider the case.

Meanwhile, action on many bills was delayed because the 19 Democrats could not muster the necessary constitutional majority of 18 to pass bills.

Property tax relief for the elderly, called for in a Constitutional amendment, cleared its last Senate hurdle on 19- 0 vote.

Reorganization, also a mandate of the voters, was approved 23- 10 in the Senate after the Republicans came back in the chamber. The House agreed on both and they went to the governor.

The bill to reinstate the death penalty in Missouri under seven categories, talked down at midday as being unconstitutional and referred for a second time to a House- senate conference committee, ran out of time at midnight.

Adjournment was approved just as the sponsor, Sen. Frank Bild, R- St. Louis County, got the floor. He had been ignored in the closing hours as he sought recognition.

Tinnin defends vote

JEFFERSON CITY — State Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, Hornersville Democrat, has denied playing any role in deciding against capital improvement funds for a proposed school for the retarded in the Sikeston - Charleston area.

Tinnin was accused last week of blocking funds for the proposed new Sikeston - Charleston school building by Reps. C. F. Cline of Sikeston, Fred DeField of Charleston and Fred (Gene) Copeland of New Madrid.

Sen. Tinnin said the director of the Missouri Division of Design and Planning had attended an appropriations conference committee meeting and had recommended that four per cent of the proposed cost be allocated for planning in the current session, with the balance to be appropriated in 1974.

"There are two other schools, one at Union and one at Hannibal that were asking for state schools for retarded as grants from the state," Tinnin said in a letter to The Daily Standard.

"We did not have the money for all three this year. It takes about a year to get all plans ready. We granted the planning money to all three with the expectation of appropriating the rest of the money next year."

"The state has made planning money available for various buildings and then the following year appropriated the funds to complete the building. So the Sikeston - Charleston school was not voted against by me. The decision was made by the entire conference committee."

"It is rather difficult for one person to defend himself when three representatives team up against him in order to mislead the public about what they wish they could have done," Tinnin said.

"I deny that I held the deciding vote as was stated in the paper, and the representative who reported that, who served on the conference committee, knows better. The other two know nothing about what happened because they are not members of the conference committee."

Rep. Copeland, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, served on the conference committee with Sen. Tinnin.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

While a mother and father are still of the belief that their daughter is still a little child, some young man comes along and teaches her that she is a woman.

* * *

A DAY FOR DAD

Father's Day, which comes this year on Sunday, June 17, has fallen victim to the same over-commercialization that plagues Christmas. Last year, America's 65 million fathers each received, on the average, two gifts costing $9 apiece. Total Father's Day sales, which increase by about 10 per cent annually, probably will top $1.5 billion in 1973. Men's sportswear sales jump 100 per cent every June, men's furnishings sales go up 55 per cent, cameras 42 per cent, sporting goods 41 per cent, luggage 40 per cent and reclining chairs 20 per cent. These figures came from the Father's Day Council, Ind., a retail trade boosters' group. "The emotion of Father's Day has overpowering impact for about two weeks every June," says Sig Schlesinger, the council's executive director.

All this is a far cry from the day in 1910 in Spokane, Wash., when Father's Day first was celebrated. Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, who originated the idea, wanted to call attention to a father's place in the home and to such patriarchial functions as discliplining the children, safeguarding the marriage bond, and protecting womanhood and childhood. The Spokane Ministers Alliance and the local Young Men's Christian Association sponsored the first official Father's Day. In 1924 President Coolidge recommended national observance and in 1972 President Nixon signed into a law a bill making the third Sunday in June a national holiday.

But despite the extravagant commercialization, Father's Day has come a full circle in one important sense. William Smart, Mrs. Dodd's honored father, was a widower who raised six motherless children by himself on an eastern Washington farm. In recent years this form of bachelor fatherhood has become more widely practiced and accepted. "Women are no more adept at being mothers than men are at being fathers," says the male president of a California chapter of Parents Without Partners. Growing numbers of divorced fathers are gaining custody of their children in cases of abandonment, abuse or adultery by the mother. These men have to contend with traditional stereotypes and outsiders' questions as well as the shopping, cooking, cleaning and bread-winning. But for many the biggest problem is displaying their affection. The english language has no words such as "maternal instinct" or "motherly love" to describe a father's love. "Nonsexual affection on the part of the man is highly questioned in this society," says Dr. Bernard Steinzor, author of When Parents Divorce (1970). "One has to fight American male standards to be a loving father."

ARMY OPEN TO MS.-PECKING?

This is now the Army, Ms. Jones:

For the first time, a new Army command policy allows members of the Women's Army Corps to exercise disciplinary authority over men.

The actual change in Army Regulations enables Wacs to be assigned to any command position, except those associated with combat or tactical combat support.

Up until now, women have been permitted to command women and to supervise both men and women, but were not permitted to exercise the disciplinary authority of a commander over men (contrary to what is frequently the case in civilian — er, that is, married — life).

MAGS THRIVE,
TAKE-OFFS BOOM

In this era of women's liberation, it is interesting to note that one of the boomingest areas in the business is men's magazines, chauvinist pig division.

Consider that a new one called "Gallery," a take-off on "Playboy" (some say a carbon copy), sold a million copies of its March issue. The latter, however, is still going well, along with "Oui" and its arch-rival, "Penthouse."

Soon to enter the competition will be "Voir," which is French for "see," as in "peek."

But magazine publishing isn't going entirely to the fleshpots. Scheduled to debut in June is "Single," which its promotors say will focus on the "intellectual, emotional and practical" concerns of the 43 million single, widowed and divorced men and women in the United States as an answer to the sex- oriented mags.

The human body is thrown out of balance by worry and fear, and the teeth decay because of the consequent upsetting of the thyroid gland, which furnishes needed calcium to fight bacteria, according to Dr. William McGonigle. "You really can think yourself into stomach ulcers," stated the scientist, "for constant thought on the subject restricts the natural processes."

The chronic worrier tends to induce the very ailments he fears. The problem is how to stop him from worrying. Shouting "Don't worry!" at him will not do the trick. He must help himself by submitting to mental discipline. He may not be able to achieve the detachment of an ancient Greek stoic, or an Oriental mystic, but he can, if he really desires it, acquire something of a philosophic attitude toward life. By deliberately reminding himself that most problems work themselves out in time, and that most anticipated evils do not befall, he can avoid contributing to the breakdown of his physical resistance, and can escape from the vicious circle.

A FORCE
FOR GOOD

The "one and only" Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker has been something extra special in my book for a great many years. I first knew this amazing man many years ago in Detroit, during the days of the old Ford trimotored workhorse planes. I remember one day when I was out at the old Ford field, I saw Eddie come in with a "whoosh" to a perfect three-point landing. A few minutes later old Henry Ford chewed him out about some insignificant thing, winding up with the crack that, "You are just a glorified chauffeur, anyway."

Eddie never batted an eye or raised his voice or showed the slightest sign that he even heard Henry. That is the kind of poise and emotional maturity and stability of character that explains all of the amazing things through which he has lived. If ever there was a great home- grown American hero, Capt. Eddie is certainly that person.

All the astounding chapters in this man's charmed life are directly associated with his absolute and unassailable faith in Almighty God, and his personal dedication to the teachings of that poor Carpenter who, nearly two thousand years ago, gave to this world the one and only answer to human survival in a world of hate and greed and jealousy and fear. Such a personality as Eddie Rickenbacker is a great force for good in any generation.

THAT'S THE WAY
NIXON OPERATES

Investigation of the 1972 election campaign has revealed that Nixon campaigners placed deceptive ads, sent phony telegrams and faked poll results to sway public opinion. So what else is new?

A decade earlier, when Richard Nixon ran for governor of California, his campaign organization was enjoined by a California court for essentially the same tactics.

Created at the time was a "Committee for the Preservation of the Democratic Party in California," which purported to speak for concerned Democrats but which was a creature of the Nixon campaign organization. Literature mailed by the phony committee to hundreds of thousands of California Democrats advanced the same themes Nixon was plugging in the campaign. The literature also solicited funds, claiming the contributions would be used by the Democratic Party.

The California court found, "In truth and in fact, such funds were solicited for the use, benefit and furtherance of the candidacy of Richard Nixon for governor of California." The mailing was in the form of a postcard poll in which the recipient Democrats were asked to respond to certain loaded questions, in addition to sending their money. The California court declared:

"This postcard poll was reviewed, amended and finally approved by Mr. Nixon personally .. Nowhere in letters mailed by defendant committee was it stated that the defendant committee and its mailing were supported and financed by the Nixon for Governor Finance Committee. Mr. Nixon and Mr. Haldeman (H.R., then Nixon's campaign manager) approved the plan and project as described above and agreed that the Nixon campaign committee would finance the project."

The deception produced a rebuke from the court and an order enjoining the Nixon campaign organization from continuing the phone mailings. California Democrats won the ruling after pursuing the issue in the courts at a cost to them of $10,000.

No one went to jail or was fined.

It isn't clear whether the lack of a criminal penalty was because the judge was "soft on crime" or because of a gap in the California law. In any case, California law and order did not accomplish much in this instance. If it had, perhaps the country would have been spared a repetition in 1972.

A WORTHY
PROJECT

Everyone, at one time or another, has driven by the scene of a highway accident. Frequently, the most pitiful and tragic aspect of the accident is the obvious helplessness of bystanders. Critically injured persons, contorted in agony or pinned in wreckage, often in shock, can only stare in blank unawareness at those around them. Confusion mounts as traffic piles up until eventually police and ambulances arrive. If the victims are fortunate, they receive expert care but, too often, delay and mishandling of the injured take a heavy toll.

Each year some 10 million persons are temporarily disabled by civilian injury, 400,000 are permanently disabled and 114,000 die -- half from traffic accidents. Many hospital emergency rooms are short-staffed on weekends, leading to delays and even fatal mistakes. Only 18 of the 50 states regulate ambulance personnel training at all. Last year, 20,000 people survived an accident, but didn't survive the aid of rescuers.

Moves are now under way to improve emergency medical service. One of the most notable is the cooperative undertaking of the American Medical Association and the Jaycees. The Jaycees are working at the community level to upgrade hospital, ambulance and other medical services of an emergency nature. The AMA is furnishing guidance to the Jaycee project. The AMA Commission on Emergency Medical Services has made kits available that outline the main features of steps that every community can take in development of facilities and the training of personnel to upgrade care of the injured.

The tools exist to vastly improve community emergency services. The AMA and the Jaycees are endeavoring to mobilze these tools and, with the help of local communities, bring them to bear on one of the nation's greatest health problems — civilian injury.

At 13 such plants, said GAO, 327 pieces of this equipment were reportedly idle, had little use, or were used predominantly for commercial (not government) work. In one year one plant used government-owned equipment to produce 80 per cent of its own products.

If the dollar bill shrinks any more, George Washington is going to have to get a haircut.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Slave Camps:
U.S. Labor Leaders to Boycott Brezhnev;
Say His Red Unions Led by Secret Police

WASHINGTON— With absolute disrespect and distaste, it is reported here that Soviet Communist party secretary Leonid Brezhnev rules the only nation in Europe which operates forced- labor concentration camps.

International detente doesn't deprive a newsman of the right and positive duty to report there are thousands of documents to prove that the U.S.S.R. runs its slave- labor camps in Third Reich Nazi tradition. From the most eminent of objective sources there is evidence to prove that the man from Moscow personally has approved the detention of over a million indentured workers in 255 major camps and some 750 other forced- labor installations. Leonid Brezhnev, the metallurgical engineer who made the grade, is much like the "new" Soviet steamer Mikhail Lermontov, sleek on the outside and somewhat shoddy on the inside, according to American maritime labor leaders who visited her last Monday after she docked in New York City.

"When I got to the pier," said National Maritime Union president Shannon Wall, "its shadowy black hull and gleaming superstructure were imposing. East German designers had done well by her. It was difficult to tell the difference at first sight between the Lermontov and the Norwegian craft on the other pier side, the Vista Fjord. But on the Lermontov side the red hammer and sickle seemed deliberately muted against a red background.

"It's the inside which told the truth. Once in the Russian ship, I noted some rust and oil stains, old- type wooden decks along the promenade and boat deck. Some wooden plugs loose. It wasn't our standard. And I remembered sadly our own big 'U,' the S.S. United States, sleek and safe when on the seas, now laid up. And I noted the pictures of Lenin. All propaganda like the crew and mates and masters."

This, in profile, is the Soviet Union. Now, on the outside it's sleek. But inside the nation, even its so- called free workers are under terrific forced pressure to speed and speed production.

The U.S.S.R. claims it has 98 million members in its so-called All Union Central Council of Trade Unions. Why won't the AFL—CIO treat it as a fraternal labor organization?

"We of American labor," said American labor chief George Meany, "have always considered the so- called trade unions in the Communist and all other totalitarian countries as Labor Fronts--- the kind that Dr. Ley and Hitler built. In the U.S.S.R. the head of the Labor Front, designated by the Communist party, is (Alexander) Shelepin, formerly chief of the dreaded Russian Secret Police (KGB). The so-called unions behind the Iron Curtain are only arms and agencies of the Communist dictatorship. They are instruments of the police state--- to police and speed up the workers in the plants."

It is imperative to note that Shelepin now is a political intimate of party secretary Brezhnev in the party's powerful Politburo which rules the Soviet Union.

Therefore, what Shelepin says must be considered the words of Brezhnev.

Recently Shelepin's labor federation scourged Israel. This is in keeping with Shelepin's tradition. It is the secret police which he modernized, which continually arrests dissenters, be they of Jewish or other faiths. The All Union Central Council of Trade Unions officially denounced the Israelis for their commando raid on Beirut. The Israelis were called "gangsters" and "imperialists."

Yet the Central Council did not denounce the Black September killing of American diplomats in Khartoum. The Shelepin labor federation did not denounce the kamikaze killing and wounding of scores of innocent Jewish and Catholic tourists at the Lod airport. The Council did not denounce the slaying of Israeli athletes in Munich.

But of the Jewish commando raid, Shelepin, now almost as powerful as Brezhnev, said, "The Soviet trade unions were outraged to hear about the treacherous attack of the Israeli brass on Beirut, Sayda and the Palestinian refugee camp."

Also, the Shelepin labor front said the "trade unions of the U.S.S.R. continue to express solidarity with the struggle of the Arab peoples against" the Israelis.

And it was this labor front which provided most of the noise and resolutions whooping it up for the Soviet's "Support the Arab People Week." It began June 4.

Obviously George Meany and his colleagues are right. The so- called 98 million-member Red labor "movement" is a police-prodded official front. Once it had strong influence in sections of the American labor movement. Now it is influential only in some Western waterfront circles.

There is overwhelming documentation for this, and for the charges of vast imprisonment of dissenters in concentration camps, the locations of which are known to the AFL—CIO International Affairs Dept. and the Jewish Labor Committee.

It is, it seems to me, vital to understand that the voice of Brezhnev is the voice of Shelepin and the words of Shelepin are those of the KGB and should be so treated by the American people and our leaders during negotiations with the Soviets. They haven't changed from Stalin's day. The outside gleams. But inside there is moral rot and a good people under chains.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Indiscreet Actions at Bureau of Mines

WASHINGTON— Two top Bureau of Mines officials have accepted free air travel from the coal companies they regulate or from contractors doing business with the government.

Both the director, Dr. Elburt Osborn, and a deputy director, Donald Schlick, appear to have violated a regulation, which expressly forbids employes from accepting gifts and gratuities from companies under their jurisdiction.

Here are the details:

-- On March 19, 1971, Osborn was asked to address a mine safety meeting in Indiana, Pa. When he declined because of poor airline connections, an executive with the Florence Mining Company, James Hurley, offered to charter a plane. Osborn flew the chartered aircraft to the meeting and flew the same company plane back to Washington the next day.

Missed Flight

-- On September 18, 1971, Osborn missed a commercial flight which would have taken him from Charleston, W. Va., to Johnstown, Pa. The president of the giant Consolidation Coal Company, John Corcoran, offered a ride in the firm's plane. Osborn accepted.

-- Three weeks later, on October 7, 1971, Osborn rode in a Pittston Company helicopter from Charleston, W. Va., to Lexington, Ky., where he addressed the Kentucky Coal Association. To the coal operators' surprise, Osborn lambasted them for their high fatality rate.

-- On May 24, 1972, another Pittston helicopter ferried the Bureau of Mines director over Buffalo Creek, W. Va., the area that was devastated three months earlier when a Pittston dam broke and coal waste poured down the valley.

Donald Schlick and three of his aides managed to obtain some hard- to- get tickets to the 1973 superbowl game in Los Angeles. While they were on the West Coast, they rode in a Food Machinery Corporation plane from Los Angeles to a mine site in Wyoming where the three Bureau of Mines officials were headed. FMC corporation happens to hold a multi- million- dollar research contract with the Bureau of Mines. For this indiscretion, Schlick was officially warned that his conduct henceforth must be "beyond reproach."

White House
Favorite

-- Nevertheless, Schlick allegedly has been involved in at least two other conflicts of interest, involving football tickets and corporate plane rides, with organizations doing business with the Bureau of Mines. Neither of these, however, were investigated. The reason, according to insiders, is that Schlick is considered a White House favorite.

Footnote: Director Osborn explained that when he accepted the free plane rides, there was no policy forbidding them. It "never occurred" to him at the time, he told us, that he was doing wrong. "But I wouldn't do it again," he promised. We were unable to reach Schlick for comment.

Who's Lying: Rep. Roger Zion, R- Ind., is sputtering over our report that he pressured Washington lobbyists into donating prizes for the annual Congressional Golf Tournament. A "perverted exaggeration of the truth," he called our story.

Unfortunately for the former Boy Scout leader, we have seen his personal memos on the golf gala. We will quote a few typical highlights so his constituents can judge who is indulging in "perverted exaggeration."

Zion's first call for boodle, his files show, was a memo to lobbyists asking: "Would you please find some suitable prize (or prizes) that you would like to contribute and send same to me..."

No lobbyist, who ever expected to get a legislative favor out of Congress, could ignore such a blatant appeal. Back came the prizes by the carload. One staff member described the scene for us in a written statement.

"Zion had more booty in his office that King Farouk in his salad days," reported the witness. "There was stuff in closets, stashed under desks and in the congressman's own office. He had stacks of expensive golf balls, an outdoor grill, golf bags... as well as two television sets."

Other lobbyists sent gift certificates. Typical was the tire lobby, which notified Zion: "The Rubber Manufacturers Association on behalf of the five tire manufacturers listed below is happy to make available a $60 gift certificate..."

Zion's colleagues became embarrassed over the gush of gifts. Tourney chairman Rep. Burt Talcott, R- Calif., who put Zion in charge of collecting prizes, quietly notified other members of the prize committee, according to his files, "not to solicit any more gifts or prizes."

Rep. Harold Collier, R- Ill., who had arranged for the congressional whiffers to use his country club, withdrew the offer "because of the manner in which the prize solicitation was conducted" by Zion.

As Talcott commented: "This guy (Zion) got overeager. None of us approved it."

Discuss community center

The former Bank of Scott County building in Morley, not used as a bank since the depression years, is now undergoing a complete renovation so that it can be used as a community center for the citizens of Morley. Principals in the work being done on the building are from left: Ernest E. McCallum of St. Louis, rehabilitation advisor with the Department of Housing and Urban Development; J. R. Lee Jr., councilman; Jess Chapman, city clerk; Vester Phillips, Versatile Home Builders, Inc. general contractor; and Carol Mathews, councilman. Construction on the building, which has been a grocery and drug store at various times since the 1930s, is being done by Causey Construction Co. of Sikeston. Demolition work began on the inside of the structure in December, with completion estimated in about 60 days. When the work is completed, the building will house a kitchen, regional library facility and meeting area. The HUD grant for renovation of the old bank building totals $25,345. Kitchen facilities in the building will be used for the "One Hot Meal a Day" program for elderly citizens. Grounds of the bank will be developed into an outdoor recreation area.

9 bills signed into law

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond signed nine more bills into law Friday.

That brought to 68 the number of bills the governor has signed this session. More than 1,300 bills were introduced.

A bill to discontinue immunization against smallpox as a medical requirement for children attending public schools, and a bill to outlaw fraudulent tampering with mileage meters in motor vehicles were among those receiving Bond's signature.

Other bills signed by the governor would:

—Specify the time within which the voters in a nursing home district may, by majority vote, dissolve the district.

—Allow the use of punch card voting machines by eliminating the voter number on paper ballots, and the "black patch" used to cover the number.

—Require petitions be filed with the secretary of state not later than 5 p.m. on the last day allowed for petition filing.

6 teachers resign R-1 Board hires 15

CHARLESTON — Resignations of six teachers were accepted and 15 new teachers were hired by the Charleston R-1 Board of Education Thursday night.

Resignations were accepted for the following school personnel: Mrs. Lynn Place, Richard Place, Everett House, Miss Karen Wildeman, Mrs. Alberta Long and Mrs. Kathy Mazuranic. Mrs. Carolyn Howard was granted a maternity leave of absence for the 1973-74 school year.

Teachers hired for Charleston High School and their positions are William J. Ponder, biology and chemistry, and Robert F. White Jr., industrial arts.

New teachers at Hearnes Elementary School will be Mrs. Linda Mannweiler, Mrs. Charlett True, Miss Connie Goodrich, Mrs. Ruth E. McAllister, Mrs. Sharon Poston, Mrs. Linda H. Oliver, Mrs. Helen Ponder, Mrs. Vicki D. Emmendorfer, Miss Sandra Schwab and Miss Susan Shelby.

Miss Joyce Marie Boyle was hired to work with the elementary Title I program, and Mrs. JoAnn Hearnes was hired to teach at the Bertrand Elementary School. A D. Simpson School here also got a new teacher, Mrs. Betty A. Newman.

Still being sought by the school district are two social studies teachers, two mathematics teachers, a speech, English and drama teacher and a foreign language teacher. These positions will be at Charleston High School, where there are also openings for two football coaches and a basketball coach.

In other business, the board accepted a gas bid of 25 cents per gallon from the McKinney Oil Co. here, a Mobile distributor. It was also reported that the national oil company said the school will receive 92 per cent of the gasoline they received over the same period last year. This ruling was made in conjunction with the current gasoline shortage. However, McKinney guaranteed the board enough gasoline for the entire year.

The board has renewed a lease on a tractor from the Ford Tractor Co. at Sikeston. Leasing rates have risen from 10 per cent of the list price to 15 per cent of the list price, but the board opted to lease rather than buy because of costly maintenance.

Approval was also given renewing $400 in annual dues to the Missouri School Board Association.

Southeast Missouri has tourist appeal

Three generations ago, canoes were floating down the Jack's Fork, Eleven Point, St. Francois, Current and other southeast Missouri rivers. To these several manmade lakes have been added including Clearwater, Wappapello and Killarney.

But water is only one attraction for the tourist reminds the Missouri Tourism Commission, southeast Missouri has history with a capital H. Thousands of youngsters and their parents each year visit such historic sites as Fort Davidson, nestled in the Arcadia Valley. Here in this peaceful valley was fought the bloodiest battle of the Civil War in Missouri.

That happened only yesterday when compared to another tourist attraction a few miles from the Fort: Elephant Rock State Park was formed 1,250 million years ago by the erosion of the Pre- Cambrian Sea. Tourists seeking yesterday can also relive the past attractions like St. Francois Village, Bonne Terre Mines, Millstream Gardens, Johnson Shut- Ins and the many springs in the area including the largest in the U.S. Big Springs.

Southeast Missouri in the fall is unrivalled anywhere as whole mountains change color and the trees don their autumnal glory. And there's one spectacle the year around – a lake literally setting atop a concrete walled mountain. The world- renowned Taum Sauk project of the Union Electric Company is one of southeast Missouri's top tourist attractions. Visitors from all over the world come to see and marvel at this unique method of generating electric power by pouring a river of water through a tunnel bored through a mountain.

State parks abound in this section of the state and there are scores of privately operated fully- equipped camping parks throughout the southeast.

Yes, there's lots to see and do in the southeast Ozarks but most important of all -- these are friendly people whose greeting to today's tourist is the same as it was to the generations of long ago.

Mississippi drops below flood stage

The National Weather Service reported the river at 31.5 feet today, one-half foot below flood stage.

The Mississippi had been above flood stage since March 10, at the beginning of massive spring flooding on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

An all-time high record crest was set May 1, when the river reached 45.5 feet. The river established four crests during the 98-day period.

Cape Girardeau is protected by a 52-foot floodwall.

Michael Cravens recognized as outstanding cadet

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO. — Michael A. Cravens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Cravens Jr. of 6 Beaird Drive, Sikeston, has been recognized as an outstanding U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) cadet at Southeast Missouri State University.

Ann Landers

Well-mannered persons always say thank you

Dear Ann Landers: I've read your column faithfully for years, and now I guess it's my turn to ask for advice. Sooner or later everybody runs into a problem they can't handle.

I am 17 years old and have been going steady for two years. Several months ago my boy friend told me he had VD and begged me to get tested right away. Well, I did, and sure enough I had it, too. Both of us were treated free by the City Health Department doctor and he didn't tell our parents. (Thank God THAT law was changed last year in our state.)

We are completely cured, although we have to go back every six months for two years to make sure the cure is permanent. The question I need an answer to is this: I babysit with an adorable little boy. I live in fear that I might have given him the infection. I would never be able to live with myself if anything happened to that child and it was my fault.

Should I suggest to his parents that they have the boy tested and trust them not to tell my folks?--- G.C.N.Y.

Dear G.C.: Yes. The chances are very slim that the child contracted the disease, but it's a chance you should NOT take.

Dear Ann Landers: You called yourself a "moth- eaten square" when you responded to "Snubbed in California." Well, if you're one, then so am I. I'll refresh your memory. The woman who wrote was hurt because she and her husband had not been invited to a big party given by her next- door neighbors. She said she nearly cried when she saw cars lined up for a block. When she asked her neighbor why she and her husband had been left out, she was told, "We weren't sure you enjoyed the previous two parties because we never heard from you." The left- out lady thought you were crazy when you suggested that she should have written a thank- you note or at least telephoned the next day.

My husband is a salesman for a packaged- food product. From time to time he has to pick up damaged cartons which we share with our neighbors and friends. (Our son is their free "delivery boy.") Most people never even say "thank you."

My husband says, "Forget it. Some folks aren't articulate."

I say it's bad manners. We'd both like to know, how important is a "thank you?"--- Old School

Dear O.S.: A "thank you" is more important to the one who SAYS it than the one to whom it is said. It distinguishes him from the graceless clod who doesn't think amenities are worth the trouble. One needn't be "articulate" to express appreciation. Just well-mannered.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is from Caracas, Venezuela, where your column appears in the Caracas Daily Journal. Since you are syndicated in many foreign countries and read so widely, will you please let your readers know that Alcoholics Anonymous and Al- Anon are available in 80 countries outside of the United States.

Anyone who wants to know how and where to get help with a drinking problem should write to A.A. Services Incorporated, Box 459, Grand Central Station, New YorkNew York 10017. Thank you, Ann. We appreciate your support--- Anonymous In Caracas

Dear Anon in C.: Here's your letter and my best wishes to all who work with A.A. They perform a life- saving service for countless people who have tried everything else and failed. Carry on!

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting--- What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yields will depend upon practices

By THOMAS A. BROWN JR
Area Agronomy Specialist

Much of the land to be planted to soybeans in this area this year will be planted late- the equivalent of normal "wheatfield" beans or later. Bean yields produced will depend to a great extent upon practices used about planting time.

On the other hand, time for planting the group is getting short,, and some shortcuts could be used to facilitate getting the crop planted with very little if any yield loss involved.

A very important consideration along this line is soil fertility. Soybeans have a high requirement for lime, and the application of lime will pay good dividends even this year if the soil needs lime and time will permit its application. Adequate phosphate and potash are also essential to the profitable production of soybeans.

Research has shown that a good response can be expected from the direct application of phosphate and potash especially on fields on which a soil test shows a phosphate level of 100 pounds or less and a potash level of 150 pounds or less per acre.

Demonstration plots conducted in Stoddard County have shown that a good response can be expected from the application of these elements as a sidedressing treatment after the beans come up on a low fertility level such as this.

Consequently, it is better to go ahead and plant the beans and apply the fertilizer later as a sidedressing treatment than to fail to get it applied in such cases. If beans follow a well-fertilized crop, no fertilizer should be needed.

We have been asked several questions recently concerning soybeans varieties for late planting. As a general rule mid-season and late- season varieties perform better when beans are planted late. Mid-season varieties adapted to our area include Hill, Dare, Dyer, York, Mark and Forrest. Adapted late- season varieties include Hood Pickett, Pickett 71 and Lee 68.

Soybean cyst nematode resistant varieties including Dyer, Mack, Forrest, Pickett, or Pickett 71 should be planted where Race 3 cyst nematode is suspected or known to be a problem.

Weed control is always an important consideration, and the persistant rainfall that has continued up until the present time means that weed problems in late beans will probably be worse than normal this year.

Some farmers have changed from preplant incorporated herbicide treatment to pre-emergence treatments that can be applied in the planting operation to facilitate getting beans planted as early as possible.

In some cases, beans are being planted without the application of herbicides. In such cases, farmers may want to consider the application of Dinoseb (Dinitro) as a "cracking stage" treatment.

This treatment can be made from the time the beans crack the ground in the process of coming up until the appearance of the first true leaves. This is the first pair of leaves that appears on the soybean plant after the cotyledons or "seed leaves".

This treatment should be used only when a flush of weeds come up shortly after planting. The recommended application rate is too low for dependable control of weeds not yet emerged.

If a preplant incorporated treatment of Trifluralin (Treflan) or Nitralin (Planavin) is to be used where beans are to follow wheat, the crop's residue, including the ashes in cases where wheat stubble is burned, should be worked into the soil well before the herbicide is applied. If the herbicide is applied in direct contact with the crop residue, the effectiveness of the herbicide will be limited significantly.

Additional information pertaining to making late plantings of beans may be obtained upon request at a county extension center.

Spring floods result in worst erosion in Missouri history

COLUMBIA— "April showers traditionally bring May flowers. But unhappily, this April boiling black clouds and angry lightning brought the worst erosion and flood damage recorded in Missouri history," reports J. Vernon Martin, state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service headquartered at Columbia.

The persistent rains of an intensity expected only once every 150 to 200 years produced extensive sheet and gully erosion that ripped away the unprotected soil from both urban and rural communities alike.

Of the 44 million acres in Missouri, few escaped with less than 20 tons per acre soil loss unless they were protected by soil conservation measures. Eight million acres suffered 50 to 60 tons per acre losses. More critical areas approached 200 tons measurable soil losses, an amount normally lost in five years from continuous corn raising on a six per cent slope.

Unprotected construction sites frequently lost sediment amounting to 500 to 800 tons per acre. Top soil one inch deep from an acre of Missouri land will weigh 150 tons. Most Missouri acres have less than seven inches of top soil remaining.

The sediment produced by the extensive erosion on unprotected land was deposited on roads, along roadsides, in water supply lakes and streams, in drainage ditches, city streets, neighbors' yards, river channels and on bottomland fields.

Martin points out that the multi- million dollar conservation systems installed by Missouri's conservation farmers teamed with the upstream watershed protection and flood prevention projects to effectively hold back huge volumes of water that reduced erosion and flood damage throughout the state and especially on 5 million acres of conservation protected cropland.

"Even though some conservation measures were severely damaged," Martin said, "they did hold erosion at a five to six- ton per acre rate with only a few exceptions reaching the 10- ton per acre level. All watershed structures performed according to design and some of the emergency spillways were used during the storms."

"The effect," Martin said, "is certain to be felt in the pocketbook of everyone in the state as damage losses continue to mount higher and higher from the early damage estimate of $28 million.

"Over 5 million bottomland acres in 480 watersheds in the state were subject to flooding. Sixteen million acres of cropland received a staggering blow from erosion and sediment damage. One early estimate predicts one million acres of Missouri cropland will not be farmed this year."

"Any landowner can request assistance from his local soil and water conservation district board," Martin explains, "and then the SCS can help him plan and install a system of protective conservation measures on his land. There are currently 98 conservation districts in the state providing this service," Martin points out.

Soybean prices up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by soybeans, farm prices jumped four per cent last month and averaged 33 per cent more than in May last year, the Agriculture Department said

Soybeans registered the sharpest increase, rising to a national average of $8.27 per bushel, a boost of $2.13 from April. Since last fall, soybeans have increased $5.01 per bushel, the department said. In May last year, they brought $3.35 per bushel.

The increase represented a sharp recovery from April, when the farm price index dipped 1.5 per cent. That was the first decline in prices farmers receive in a year.

Otherwise, according to USDA, farm prices have risen consistently in 1973. Those increases include: January, 5 per cent; February, 3; March 7.

Prices for all beef cattle averaged $43.50 per hundred weight in the May report, up $1.10 from April and only 10 cents below the record set in March, the report said.

Cotton prices went up 12 per cent from April, including a boost of 3.2 cents for upland cotton, which averaged 30.25 cents per pound. That was still below the May 1972 price of 31.7 cents per pound, however.

Corn, at $1.61 per bushel was the highest in more than 20 years, the report said. Corn brought $1.42 in April and $1.15 per bushel in May last year.

Potato prices averaged $4.66 per hundred weight, compared with $3.96 in April and $1.99 in May 1972.

Prices that farmers pay out to meet expenses rose two per cent during the month and averaged 14 per cent more than a year ago, the report said.

Former certification under way for farm programs

NEW MADRID — With a final certification date of July 2 for the 1973 feed grain, wheat and cotton programs in New Madrid County, approximately 10 per cent of program participants have certified program compliance, reports Bernard Recker, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) county committee chairman.

Pointing out that the final certification date is only two weeks away, he said that farmers who want ASCS measurement service should get their requests in as soon as possible. This service is offered at cost and can provide assurance to a producer before he certifies that he is in compliance with program regulations.

Farmer certification, which has been operating for several years, means that the producer who is participating in the feed grain, wheat, or cotton programs comes into the county ASCS office and certifies to his crop acreages, his set- aside acreage if any, that his farm is in compliance with all program regulations and will continue in compliance throughout the year.

Program payments follow certification and will begin in July. In fact, Recker said, almost all payments will be made the week of July 1. "July 2 will be the biggest day," he said, "since the first comes on a Sunday."

Correct certification is very important to a producer, the ASC committee chairman pointed out. An error can result in loss of some or all of the farm program payment.

"That's why the measurement service is offered -- to cut down on mistakes that can cost the farmer -- and we also urge producers who have questions about certification to call or come into the ASCS office. Every farmer should know exactly what he is certifying before he signs his name," Recker said.

The ASC committee chairman also reminded farmers that they can certify just as soon as they have their program crops planted and know they are in compliance. "Certification may be made any time between now and July 2," he said, "and the earlier certification is made, the more assured everyone is that those program payments will be ready when July rolls around."

Spot checks are made each year on farms participating in the programs. Farms to be spot- checked are selected on a random basis, the ASC committee chairman said. "New Madrid County farmers have an excellent record," he added, "and few errors have been found in past years. Usually these have been minor."

Missouri planting conditions better

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Planting conditions improved slightly in Missouri last week, with three days suitable for field work, according to the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Pastures remained in good condition in all sections except the Bootheel, where they are fair to good.

Reports indicated 24 per cent of the state corn crop unplanted. Progress ranged from 90 per cent complete in the Bootheel to only 66 per cent in west-central sections of the state.

Statewide, planting of soybeans is only 33 per cent complete compared with 84 per cent a year ago.

Grain sorghum was 37 per cent planted, up 18 per cent from the previous week but well below the 86 per cent of 1972.

The reporting service said 88 per cent of the cotton crop was in, and planting could be considered complete. Some acreage was plowed up last week because of poor stands and will be replanted with soybeans due to the lateness of the season.

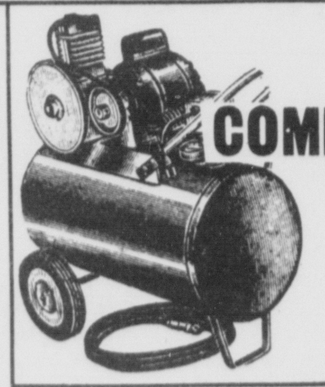

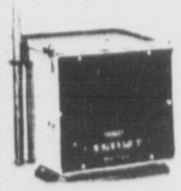

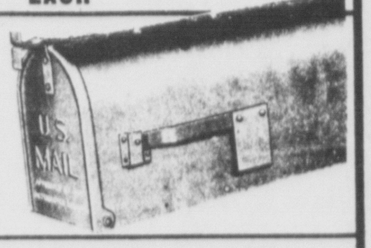

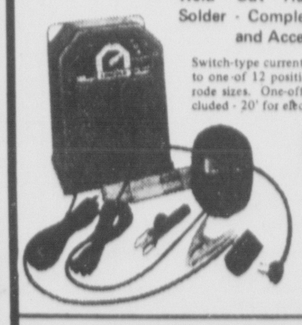

Fifty per cent of the wheat was showing color last week, compared to 83 per cent a year ago.

Player remains leader

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Gary Player, a gritty little figure of 5 feet, 8 inches and 149 pounds, marveled as he watched his playing partner, Tom Weiskopf, throw all of his towering 185 pounds into a thundercap drive.

"If I had a body like that," the South African remarked to a friend. "nobody would beat me."

They weren't beating the "Little Black Knight" as the 73rd U.S. Open Golf Championship moved into the third round today at the aged Oakmont Country Club.

On Friday, Player shot a second straight sub-par round—a 70—for a 137 that gave him the halfway lead.

Player had a one-stroke edge over Jim Colbert, who shot 7068—138.

Jack Nicklaus was not far behind.

Astros edge Cards

HOUSTON (AP)— Houston Astros catcher Bob Watson seems to have proved his point that switching positions hasn't hurt his batting skills.

Watson, playing his first major league game as a catcher Friday night, clouted a solo home run in the eighth inning to break a tie and give the Astros a 3- 2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Watson, a leftfielder all season for the Astros and among the Top 10 hitters in the National League, was given a shot at catching in spring training. It didn't work out.

"I don't know what the reasons were for Leo Durocher not using me as a catcher before this," Watson said. "In the spring he said catching might detract from my hitting.

"But I've said I'm going to hit whether I catch, play the outfield or first base. I'm going to hit."

Houston took a 2- 0 lead in the third inning when Tommy Agee, who has replaced Watson in leftfield, clouted a two- run homer, his first in the Astrodome as an Astro.

Joe Torre made it a 2- 2 deadlock in the fifth with a homer of his own.

Alan Foster, who went the distance for the Cards, was the loser, and Dave Roberts, although he needed help, was the winner.

Legislature pushes through health, welfare, consumer bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bills to comply with federal regulations, health and welfare measures and consumer interest bills were among legislation pushed through the Missouri legislature Friday on the last day of the 1973 regular session.

One of the bills would regulate ambulance companies and require first aid training for drivers and attendants.

The bill was amended to include a "Good Samaritan" section from a bill defeated earlier in the Senate. The section removes doctors and other medical personnel from liability if they give aid at an emergency and were later sued.

Other bills would:

—Have the state take over the Bothwell Lodge just north of Sedalia for cultural or educational purposes.

—Moderize the state divorce laws by allowing a divorce without fault if both parties agreed their marriage was irretrievably broken. Other divorces would be tried under present law.

—Issue $8 million in bond issues for water pollution projects.

—Require pharmacists to place the name and dosage of a prescription on container labels.

—Allow students at any Missouri University branch to transfer their credits to other branches.

—Require public buildings, except schools, to have ramps, sidewalks, handrails, doors and elevators to accommodate handicapped persons.

—License speech pathologists and audiologists under the healing arts commission.

—Establish a Division of Highway Safety in the Office of Administration to act as the principle state agency for obtaining federal funds under the National Highway Safety Act of 1966. It would have planning and study functions relating to highway safety, and the director would have to have at least five years of experience in that field.

—Bring the Missouri Clean Water Law into compliance with federal regulations, and increase the power of the executive secretary of the Clean Water Commission to regulate violators.

The bill also tightens current regulations and increases the daily penalty for violations from $5,000 to $10,000.

—Allow circuit court clerks to keep all records of the courts and use new systems of keeping records, subject to approval by the judges. It also provides for a 25 per cent pay increase.

—Provides that if two or more people conspire to commit a felony they are guilty of a felony, and if they conspire to commit a misdemeanor they would be guilty of a misdemeanor.

—Add a new judge to the judicial circuit including Pulaski County, and one to the Greene County circuit.

—Provide that tax abatement certificates be issued to persons owning or leasing land considered to be blighted, if they plan to develop the area.

—Permit anyone buying a product from a door-to-door salesman to cancel the order within three days after the purchase is made.

—Require coroners to report to the Missouri Division of Highway Safety the circumstances surrounding motor vehicle accident deaths and allow them to test for alcohol or drug use.

—Permit the governor to authorize the Department of Community Affairs to make annual payments to the various regional planning commissions.

—Permit the payment of Aid to Dependant Children in cases where an unemployed father is living at home.

—Provide that Aid to Dependent Children benefits would be payable to a child and needy guardian if the child has been deprived of parental support because of death, absence or mental incapacity of the parent.

—Discontinue the state brucellosis law and put the state under the federal law allowing higher indemnities to cattlemen who have to have their cattle killed to stop the spread of the infection which causes sterility.

—Allow licensed embalmers, having completed a certified course, to remove the eyes of voluntary donors who have died, to be used for transplants.

—Provide an exemption up to the first $3,000 from state income tax for persons serving in the military in Missouri.

90 bills left on House, Senate calendars at adjournment time

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The bill to reinstate the death penalty in Missouri died on the Senate calendar in the waning hours of the Missouri General Assembly's 77th session Friday night.

It was one of about 90 bills that were left on the House and Senate calendars when adjournment came at midnight.

Sen. Frank Bild, a Republican from St. Louis County, made repeated attempts to get recognition from Senate leaders for action on the death penalty bill, but to no avail.

The bill, which passed the House with overwhelming approval, was considered one of the priority pieces of legislation for this session by many legislators.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, who says he favors restoration of the death penalty, made no mention of the bill's demise in his post adjournment news conference.

House majority floor leader Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, who opposed the bill "personally," said he regretted its failure to pass "only to the extent that it was the will of the House."

House speaker Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, who personally favors restoring capital punishment, said he was "very disappointed" at its failure, as was the minority floor leader, Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood.

Senate majority floor leader Lawrence J. Lee, D-St. Louis, strongly opposed to the death penalty, helped defeat it in the Senate.

Also killed by inaction in the Senate was a controversial bill to provide regulation of abortions in Missouri.

The bill passed the House, but opponents said it contained clauses that made it unconstitutional because they regulated abortions in the first three months of pregnancy.

The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled the decision to have an abortion in the first three months of pregnancy is between the woman and her physician.

The Senate graveyard of bills also included a measure to grant the full rights and responsibilities of adults to 19-year-olds.

The proposal ran into trouble in the Senate because the House restored a provision to allow 18-year-olds to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

Among other bills that ran out of time were proposals to:

—Outlaw prostitution.

—Provide new judges for the St. Louis and Kansas City Court of Appeals.

—Permit the state Division of Health to enter into contracts with private schools and colleges of medicine and the division would pay $4,000 a year for each student.

June 15, 1973

To Our Friends and Neighbors in Sikeston:

We are sorry! Truly sorry! I am sure you know we are sincerely sorry, both from your point of view and ours that the rains keep coming. Most of all, we wish we could have been right there in April or May to finish up, clean up, and landscape your fine new Main Street Project. We promise you that we have been checking daily to assure ourselves and you that the moment conditions are right we will be hard at work to finish up at the earliest date possible. Aren't you glad that up to now we haven't been in there moving piles of dirt and rock around for the showers to turn into more mud than ever? To do productive work we must be able to get into the ditches as well as the high spots so just a dry day or two doesn't help.

We are really not letter writers, we are road builders, but since the weather has had us waiting for so long, we know that you are rightfully getting anxious to have full use of your fine new facility. We just want to assure you that we are going to be there with bells on the moment we believe we can do good productive work. We further assure you that your Highway Department is seeing to that. I am sure you realize that they are most anxious to see us move as rapidly as possible. It is one of those unfortunate things that this project had to come about during the most prolonged wet period ever, especially in view of your critical drainage situation.

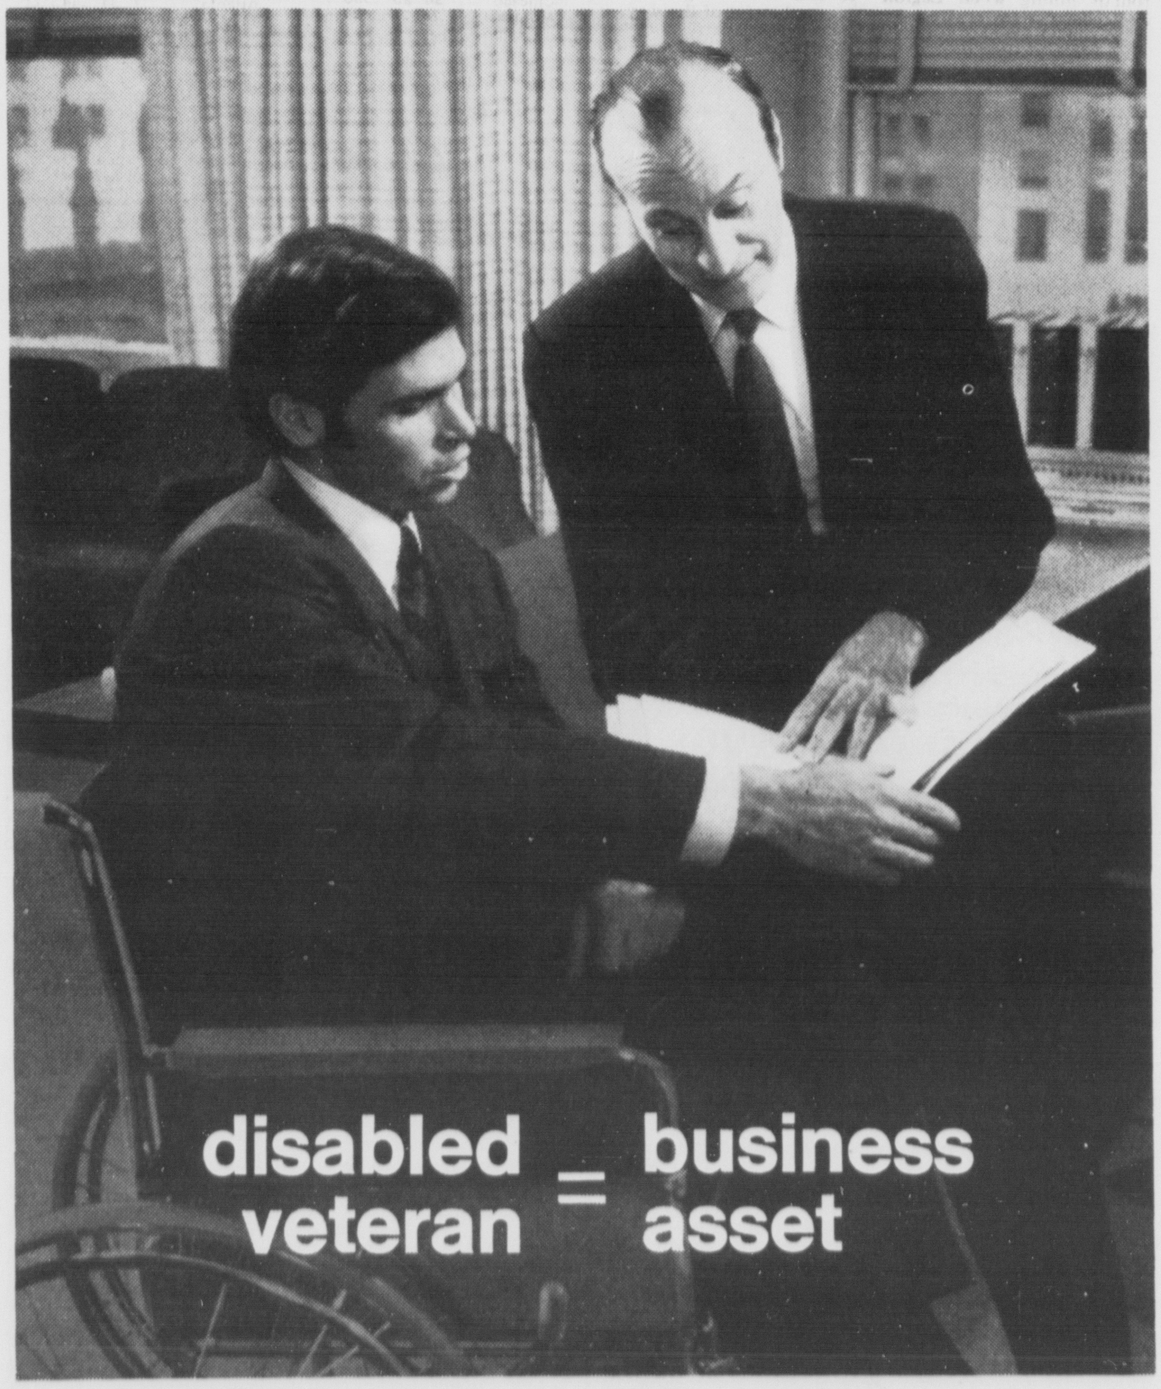

Another purpose in writing this letter is to thank all of you, but most particularly those of you with businesses along the route, for your extreme patience and kindness. You all have really been great and good friends and neighbors and we want you to know how much we do sincerely appreciate it.

In closing let us pledge to you our best efforts in making the final phases of the project as painless and speedy as possible. We hope to be able to resume work very soon. Surely someone will finally close the "water gate".

Sincerely yours,

GIRARDEAU CONTRACTORS, INC.

Medicare coverage to be extended

Starting July 1, Medicare coverage will be extended to 1.7 million disabled people under 65.

Disabled people who have received social security disability payments for two years or more will be able to get help from Medicare in paying their hospital and doctor bills and other covered services, according to Clifford Forsee, social security district manager in Cape Girardeau. Medicare was previously available only to people 65 or over.

"Those eligible for coverage." Forsee said, "will include disabled workers, disabled widows and disabled dependent widowers widowers between 50 and 65, disabled mothers 50 or older who get social security benefits because they have young or disabled children in their care, and people who get benefits because they were disabled before age 22."

People getting monthly social security checks because they are disabled will be notified if they are eligible for Medicare. Widows 50 or over who have been severely disabled the last 2 years but haven's filed a claim because they're getting checks as mothers caring for young or disabled children should apply for disabled widows benefits to see if they can get Medicare.

Starting July 1, the basic monthly premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare will be $6.50, an increase of 50 cents a month over the current rate. "Disabled people require seven times as much hospital care as other people and three times as much service from doctors," Forsee said.

Missouri salutes farm family of the year

COLUMBIA — The David J. Gier family of Russellville, Moniteau County, has been named Missouri's FHA Farm Family of the Year, according to John O. Foster, State Director.

The family is representative of approximately 8,000 Farmers Home Administration farm borrowers in Missouri. They have demonstrated the progress that can be made with full utilization of available land, labor and capital.

Congressman Richard Ichord gave special recognition to the family at a luncheon in Jefferson City on June 15. The national sponsors of the FHA Farm Family of the Year presented Mr. and Mrs. Gier a special plaque.

This is the third family that has been honored in the Farmers Home Administration's state "Farm Family of the Year" program. The award was established in 1970 as a means of honoring families that have demonstrated outstanding progress as farmers and rural citizens.

Farming methods, financial progress, family living, property improvement, community leadership and overcoming adversities are some of the criteria used in making the selection.

As recipient of Missouri's Farm Family Award, the Giers will now compete for national farm family honors.

Travel means danger

The vacation months of June, July and August make up a potentially dangerous period of the year for highway travelers, it was noted today by Col. Sam S. Smith, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

"Motor vehicle travel takes on a special significance during this time of the year as many families spend a large part of their vacation traveling the highways," Smith stated. "For most vacations it is an enjoyable time of the year. But for thousands of others it becomes a time of sorrow and regret because of traffic accidents and the resulting deaths and injuries.

"Last year in the Nation, 15,600 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the months of June, July and August - 413 of them died in Missouri," Colonel Smith continued. "These facts should convince motorists that every precaution should be taken in an effort to make travel safer during these three months this year."

The Patrol Superintendent recommended the following basic protective measures to vacationing motorists: Make certain the vehicle you drive is in safe mechanical condition BEFORE you begin your vacation trip; wear safety belts, drive within the limits of your stamina and never when tired; obey the maximum speed limits - reduce your speed when conditions warrant; and drive defensively - watch for the mistakes of others.

Stoddard led production

KENNETT — Dunklin County led the state in cotton acreage last year, while Stoddard County led in soybean production, according to statistics released today by the Missouri Department of Agriculture.

A total of 115,500 acres of cotton was planted in Dunklin County, although soybean acreage harvested outdistanced cotton by some 13,000 acres, the total being 129,000.

Pemiscot came in second in cotton acreage, with 109,700; New Madrid third with 103,900; and Stoddard foruth with only 44,100. The only other counties in the state to grow cotton were Buchanan with 21,100; Mississippi with 21,600; Ripley with 1,700; and Scott with 17,300.

Some 3,960,000 acres of soybeans were harvested in the state in 1972, according to the department's figures. Stoddard led the state with 234,000 harvested. Coming in a close second was New Madrid County with 225,000; Pemiscot third with 132,000; and Dunklin fourth with 129,000.

All of the state's 114 counties had some soybean acreage with the exception of Christian, Iron, Stone, Texas and Camden.

Other crops planted in Dunklin last year were wheat, totaling 47,900 acres harvested; 6,000 acres in corn; 1,900 acres in sorghum and 100 acres in oats.

Livestock statistics in Dunklin showed 10,100 hogs, and 8,700 head of cattle, including 2,900 beef cows and; 100 milk cows.

Other data released showed the annual average farm wages paid were $14.40 a day without room and board or $11 a day with room and board; or $1.77 per hour.

Farm land and buildings in the state were valued at $8.4 billion last year, up 10 per cent from a year earlier. Average value per acre was $260, $24 higher than in 1971.

Statewide, soybean growers enjoyed a banner year in 1972, according to the department. Despite record production, a strong demand pushed average prices to record levels. Poor harvest conditions last fall also contributed to higher prices for corn as well as beans.

Cotton prices averaged three cents per pound higher last year than in 1971. The high of 33.0 cents in April was 10 cents above the same month in 1971.

Missouri ranks fourth in the nation in cash receipts for hogs and soybeans, seventh for corn, eighth for all commodities, ninth for livestock and livestock products, and tenth for cattle and dairy products.

Thailand's capital, Bangkok, is not much older than Washington, D.C. It was founded in 1782, after the Burmese had sacked the old capital, Ayutthaya, 45 miles to the north.

Good combining result in high wheat yields

BLOOMFIELD— Wheat harvest is just around the corner, and farmers should make plans now for combining the crop, according to Tom Brown, area agronomy specialist. A good job of combining will result in higher yields of quality wheat harvested this season.

A first step in making such plans should be to check the combine to be sure that it is in good mechanical condition. This should be done as soon as possible to allow sufficient time for making necessary repairs prior to wheat harvest. Lost time due to breakdowns and harvest losses can be costly unless steps are taken to prevent them.

The second step should be to make the necessary combine adjustments to properly harvest wheat. The combine operator's manual should be used as a guide to set the combine before going to the field.

As a third step, a trial run should be made through the field during which the grain in the bin and combine losses should be checked and needed adjustments should be made for proper combining.

Finally, the threshed grain and field losses should be checked several times each day as field conditions often change from one part of the field to another and moisture content often changes throughout the day.

In operating the combine, speed is one of the most important considerations. This speed should be correct, and the combine should be operated at a steady speed. The correct speed may be found in the operator's manual.

If the combine is not doing a good job of threshing, increase the cylinder speed or reduce the conclave clearance. If the combine is over threshing so the straw is chewed up, increase the conclave clearance.

If there are big pieces of straw or heads in the grain bin, close down the lower sieve a little. If there is light chaff in the grain bin, increase the wind blast.

If there are cracked or skinned kernels, take a look at the material in the tailings auger. This should contain pieces of heads, but only a little grain. Excessive recirculation damages kernels. If there is a large amount of threshed grain in the tailings auger, check the wind blast. It may be too high or directed too far to the rear, or the lower adjustable sieve may be closed too far.

If grain is being carried over with the straw, overloading may be the cause. Set the cutterbar as high as possible without leaving grain, or reduce forward speed.

If it is difficult to adjust the combine, check your operator's manual or talk to your equipment dealer.

What's the law?

The case of the worrisome partner

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Otto and his partner operated their business like two men on a unicycle. And because they kept their noses to the grindstone without turning them up to anybody, they became very successful. Not only did their partnership enjoy a reputation for reliability, however, it also enjoyed a reputation for fiscal responsibility which Otto, particularly, took pride in.

Consequently, when the partnership issued a sizable check to a customer in the normal course of business and it was erroneously returned by their bank marked "insufficient funds," poor Otto developed an ulcer from worry. What's more, he blamed his ulcer on the bank's carelessness and sued the bank for causing it.

"It was like a catastro- stroke," complained Otto in court. "After years of carefully chaperoning our reputation for fiscal responsibility, the bank damaged it with one negligent act, I was sick over it for months."

"If any injury was caused," responded the bank, "It was to Otto's partnership and not to worrisome Otto. While the bank might be responsible if the partnership got an ulcer, it's not responsible because Otto got one. Therefore, his case, obviously, should be dismissed."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the bank liable for worrisome Otto's ulcer?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the bank's customer was the partnership and not the individual partners. Therefore, concluded the judge, while the bank may have breached an obligation to the partnership by wrongfully dishonoring its check, the bank did not breach any obligation to Otto so as to entitle Otto to collect for his ulcer from the bank.

4 Dexter boys attend Boys State

DEXTER — Four Dexter boys left today for Boys State, an American Legion citizenship program at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg.

Boys selected to attend are sponsored by one of the local civic clubs. The four boys selected to go this year are Mike Stephens, Harold Parris, Jerry Robinson and Larry Capps. All four will be seniors at Dexter High School this fall.

Boys State is a democracy in that all citizens may vote and are eligible to hold office. It aims at all times to make its program of training in functional citizenship effective through creating a wide range of opportunities for participation in the various agencies of government.

The 1973 session of The American Legion Boys State of Missouri will find 961 boys from the 114 Missouri counties and the City of St. Louis in attendance, a spokesman for the event said.

Parris, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parris. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, he is a member of stage band, an Eagle Scout and a member of the Order of the Arrow.

The Rotary Club is sponsoring Robinson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll N. Robinson of Route One. He is 16 years old and will also be a senior.

Capps, 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Capps, is sponsored by the American Legion. He is a member of the Youth for Community Betterment Club and Christian Youth Fellowship.

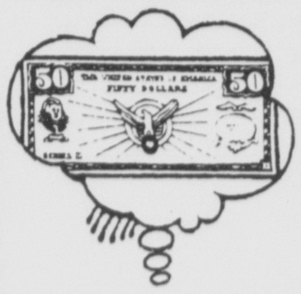

Stephens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nobel Stephens. He is sponsored by the American Legion and is a member of the Order of the DeMolay.

Partisan politics hinder last session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Partisan politics got in the way of the legislative mission Friday — the last day of the session — as all the Republican Senators boycotted the Senate for nearly four hours.

Although several dozen bills awaited action on the Senate calendar, the 13 senators walked out of the chamber in support of Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps.

Phelps said he was barred from the chamber after he insisted on presiding. The Senate doors were locked and only Senators and reporters were allowed to enter.

Phelps chose the closing hours, the most important hours, of the session, to challenge Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, over the question of who presides.

Cason, the president pro tem, has relieved Phelps of the chair several times since January, especially when sensitive legislation was pending. Phelps presided Friday morning but Cason told him not to do so in the afternoon.

When Phelps tried to take the dais in the afternoon, Cason ordered the sergeant-at-arms to remove him from the chamber.

"I object. I object. I am the president of the Senate. This denies me of my Constitutional right to preside," Phelps said as he was escorted out. He said the Constitution provides he should cast tie-breaking votes when necessary.

He was waving his arms and still hollering as he was pushed out the door.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, a Republican like Phelps, filed for a writ of prohibition with the Supreme Court in an effort to get Phelps back in the chair before the midnight adjournment. But the court said it could not consider the merits of the case in the short time available.

Phelps, somewhat dejected when he heard the news, said he would pursue the matter further in the courts by seeking a declaratory judgment. He accused the Democratic leaders of trying to steal the Senate presidency.

Cason pointed out that Senate rules, which were agreed to early this session by all the Republican Seantors, provide that the lieutenant governor shall preside at the will of the president pro tem. Cason said he had intended to allow Phelps to sit in the chamber and cast any tiebreaking votes, but found it necessary to eject him because of the loud and continuing protest.

Cason said he took control because "we needed someone with experience in the chair," in the windup of the session. He said Phelps had been available to preside only 33 out of 81 possible times this session.

"Full- time Phelps is really only part- time," Cason said, referring to Phelps' campaign pledge to be a full- time lieutenant governor.

Several of the Republicans were unable to present their bills as the Democrats proceeded with the Senate calendar.

Sen. Lawrence Lee, D- St. Louis, the majority floor leader, called the walkout "Childish" and said it caused some bills to be passed and some to fail, when the opposite might have occurred if every part of the state had been represented.

"They certainly have done a disservice to their constituents," Lee said.

But Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R- Brentwood, who said "I orchestrated this," defended the walkout.

Car Cutter

A power saw used for cutting automobiles into pieces was left in the front of a 1973 automobile Friday when police arrived at Sikeston Auto Salvage on West Malone Avenue. Police arrested three men for possession of stolen automobiles during a raid on the firm which may have been involved in a major auto theft ring.

which passed by substantial margins in both houses before different bills were sent to a conference, had the backing of the governor.

Disputes between the legislature and the legislature occurred throughout the 5½month session.

Early in the session, the Senate convinced Gov. Christopher S. Bond to withdraw his first appointment, Robert L. James, named commissioner of administration.

Then both houses admonished the governor for asking agency heads to clear testimony before committees with the governor's legislative assistant. Bond apologized and said he did not intend for the memorandum to be intended as an order to withhold information from the legislature.

The Senate rejected the appointment of Edward Haynes as head of the personnel system because the eligibility list had been changed.

Democratic legislators won a suit against the governor's veto of wording in an appropriations bill.

The Senate never acted on the appointments of Lee R. Schuster of St. Joseph as a University of Missouri Curator and Sen. James A. Noland, R-Osage Beach, as a member of the tourism commission. Friday night, Bond withdrew Schuster's nomination.

Thursday, the legislature sent two major proposals—an open meetings bill and statewide voter registration—to the governor.

A major tax proposal, a halfcent sales tax for transportation, was approved and already has been signed by the governor.

Bills to increase the legislators' daily expense allotment from $10 to $25 a day passed with little difficulty, and Friday, final approval was given to a bill lifting the statutory limit of 200 employes that legislators can hire.

The bill also removes the 10 cents a mile limit on travel expenses, allowing it to be set equal to that of all other state employes, which is determined by the Office of Administration.

Also approved Friday and sent to the governor were bills to allow the Division of Health to coordinate a statewide emergency medical system, regulate and license all ambulances in the state, and have the Department of Education set up a program for educating mentally and physically handicapped children.

The education bill is expected to cost $7.3 million the first year.

The education department will be allowed to begin a census in October to find out how many children there are and where they are.

A bill to allow the Corrections Department to inspect all jails was defeated in a rural-urban split in the Senate.

The tax relief measure applies to persons over 65 earning less than $7,500 a year.

It will go into effect in October and is expected to affect 133,000 persons. However, only a third of those are expected to participate the first year.

The bill gives property owners an income tax rebate on this formula:

Four per cent of the income deducted from the tax bill gives the income tax credit. Eighteen per cent of the year's rent would be equal to a property tax bill. The percentage goes by increments down to 3 per cent of the income in the middle range, such as $4,000.

Fuel bids called for

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state has called for bids on more than 5 millions of fuel for the 1973-74 fiscal year, says Herbert C. Damron, director of contracting and procurement for the state.

"That June 20 date for opening bids could be an important mark in the lives of many Missourians, depending on how the current fuel shortage affects bidding for the state contract," Damron said Friday.

"The interest of the public requires that bidding companies consider the necessity of furnishing petroleum products to state institutions at the lowest price possible," Damron said. "Over inflationary pricing could eventually result in reduction of state services to the taxpayer."

Damron said the specifications called for bids on the state's fuel requirements for one year.

He said the division submitted invitations for bid to 33 fuel jobbers and distributors, including the large national distributors.

In addition, Damron has called on the executive directors of the Missouri Oil Council and Missouri Oil Jobbers to assist the state in obtaining bids.

BRINE AND DANDY

Be ready for a new world of taste adventure when you add your favorite spirits to marinades for roasts and barbecues.

Build up flavors with mixed cocktails—Martinis for broiling chicken, a Bourbon Sour mixture for barbecued butterflied lamb leg, for instance. Or take advantage of the easy yet distinctive sweet-sour accents of liqueurs in marinades for Oriental specialties.

There is more to these savory mixtures than just the barbecue main course. In the early days of our country, spirit marinades were used in preserving fruits and vegetables.

We still use spirits in preserved or canned fruits and vegetables. You can transform ordinary cooked or canned vegetables into glamorous appetizers. It's as simple as pouring off part of the cooking liquid and replacing with spirits to add delectable aromatic flavor.

Party guests will "Oh" and "ah" when they taste your Bourbonned beets, olives in gin, and Scotched green beans.

CARIBBEAN CUISINE

The term "melting pot" commonly means a place where in which immigrants of various nationalities and races are assimilated. The U.S. Virgin Islands is such a place. Here, however, the term "melting pot" may also be applied to the exotic, taste-tempting food of the beautiful islands.

A multi-national melange of ingredients fuse to form many delicious dishes. One--called "Kalaloo"--is a lulu. Its recipe tells a capsule history of the islands.

"Kalaloo" itself is the name of a local form of wild spinach probably native to the Caribbean. The okra that figures prominently among the ingredients is likely of African origin, as is the majority of the islands' population. The salt meat is a tribute to the ships' stores of the endless armadas from all nations that have passed through these islands.

The crab and fish are natural contributions from the sea. And the general "philosophy" of the exotic dish probably stems from a variety of seaside cultures: the French "Bouillabaisse"; the Spanish "Zarzuela"; Louisiana's "Gumbo" and many other nations' thick fish stew-soup concoctions.

On the islands, the recipe varies greatly to accommodate individual tastes and seasonal availability of ingredients. Mainlanders, too, can now enjoy variations on the theme once the general idea is understood. Here's one popular way of preparing Kalaloo in your own kitchen:

KALALOO

3 qts. water
3 lbs. fresh spinach
2 garlic cloves
12 fresh okra pods (or 1 pkg. frozen)
1 large onion chopped together with a sprig of parsley and a stalk of celery
1 small hot pepper
2 tbsp. vinegar
1½ lbs. fresh or frozen fish fillets
2 cans prepared crab meat

Boil salt meat in 3 qts. of water until tender. Put spinach, garlic and okra (from which stems have been removed) through good grinder. Add with chopped vegetables, pepper and vinegar to meat and boil for about 20 minutes. Add fish and crab meat and continue boiling another 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily. Do not skim while boiling. Serve piping hot in soup bowls.

This and other culinary creations of the Virgin Islands is as lilting as the native Calypso language which contains traces of many tongues.

Pasteur's Achievements

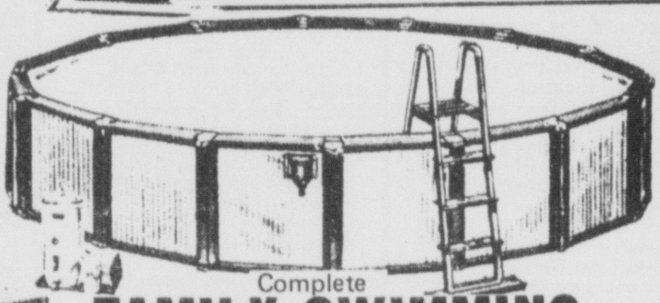

Louis Pasteur originated and was the first to use vaccines for rabies, anthrax and chicken cholera; saved the wine, beer and silk industries of France and elsewhere from extinction; but ing the pasteurization proche is best known for developess, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.
